

The initial text is in FRENCH. I tried to make it sound as English as possible, but some words can't be translated.

Ex: Training is translated as "School" in French. But School in English is not a common word for those types of learning/coaching programs.

What I want to know is:

Are the bullet points promising enough?

Is my headline interesting enough? (knowing most people are scared by Trading because it looks like an inaccessible world/ they need to pay 1000+ euros to get training)

Is the transition from Headline, to sub-headline, to body; smooth enough or not?

Are the final words of the CEO at the bottom inspiring or destructive?

PS: I play on Identity (courage, Determination, perseverance, etc.) and Status (freedom, old job) as well as scammy environments because French Trading is over-inflated by them. It's the sophistication of my Market. (Level 5)

The actual Landing Page link so you can look at the design: (don't subscribe like a jackass, be a Man and resist the temptation) <https://formationgratuite.smartfrx.com>

Objective: Submit email, obviously.

Steps to get there: Break their brain, Stacked fascinations, a different approach with clarity and transparency (not used in other French training), some testimonials, and the CEO's face so he becomes real.

Here's the landing page!

"A new, transparent, and free approach. I'm a fan!" - Rémy, Student of the SmartForex training.

Headline: How To Beat the Giant Institution Companies ruling the Markets and Win up to 2% Capital on 80% of your Trades.

Missing a sub head tackling "Steal unfair advantage from the bad guys"

Making this approach overtly-known is dangerous for SmartForex.

The top-notch Investors taking all the profits in the Markets are going to lose their unfair advantage, and they certainly won't be pleased.

You should get this free training before anything bad happens to it-- We never know...

The words of Robin, CEO of SmartForex:

"My courses teach the reality of trading, not the flashy one that promise richness in 6 months.

If you can't work hard for one or two years in Trading rather than 35 in your current job, then I'm not the right teacher for you.

In short: you won't make big money unless you've persevered!

However! If you follow my teachings and work hard...

You'll achieve what students who have completed my training have achieved before, which is a freedom that no other job allows.

See you soon if you choose the option of Freedom, Courage, and Determination 💪 "
