

closed_book

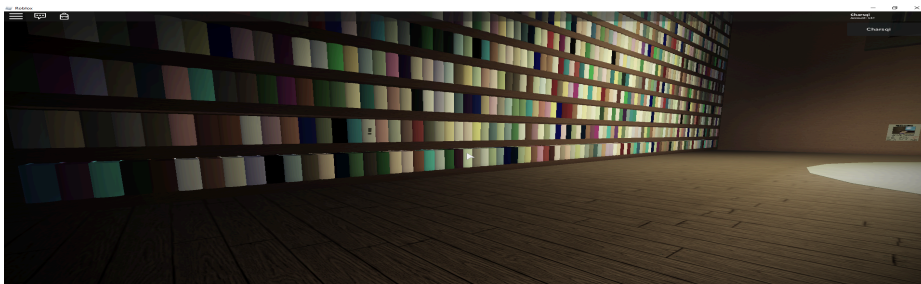

Closed_book is a myth, though he isn't in any myth hunting groups or groups. He wears a t-shirt he made called "phase 2", which is a picture of a closed book. In the description of the t-shirt it says "Sacred." His bio is "I speak to hear my voice." He is friends with myths such as Jayine, SaintDasXII and ScrapTheMetal.

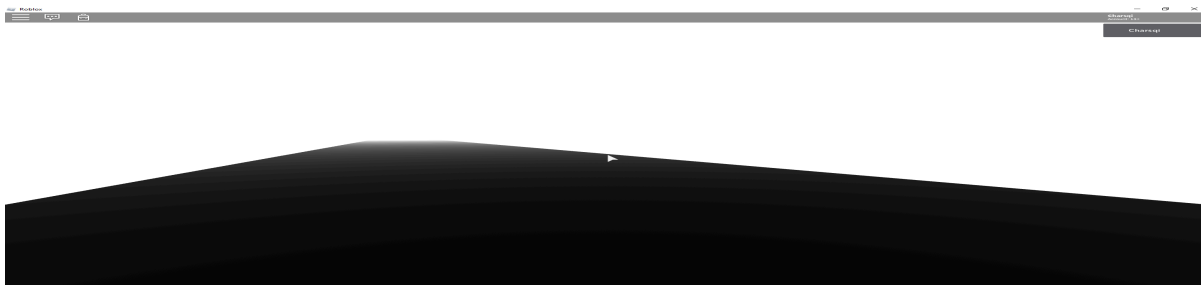

My Library

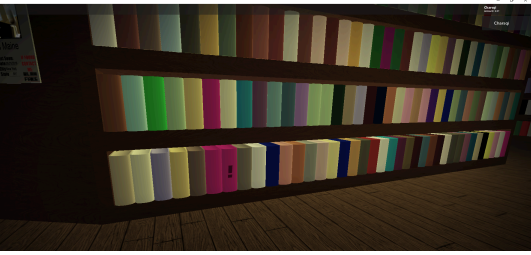

Closed_book's game is called "My Library. This is a library which contains lots of books and missing posters. There are exclamation marks around the books, which change the words on the statue, and if you click on the sign it will teleport you. If you go into the room on the right of the image and click the book under the table, it changes the sign to the letter "A". This is only one of teleports. This will teleport you to a game called "A". It is a first person game, with you stuck in a chair and a book on a table. If you click on the book, it brings up "Borrower", and lots of different letters and numbers. On the table there is the number 2, in the series of games it is most likely telling you a code. If you go back to the library, you will find other teleports.

If you go over here, you will find an exclamation mark on a book, if you click on it, it changes the sign to say "Long Walk." Click on this and you are teleported to a game called "Long Walk." It is a road which goes on for miles.

There are two ways to go, I am not sure which one will take you to something, I couldn't find anything in that game.

Go back to the library, as there are more teleports.

If you go into the room of books, at the back of the room there is a pink book with the exclamation mark on it. Click on it and it changes the sign to "Destruction of the Crux." The game it takes you to is not anchored, so I am not sure what it is meant to be, maybe another version of the library. There is a sign with a date on it, the date on the sign is "May 12, 2018." This date could be when the library was opened.

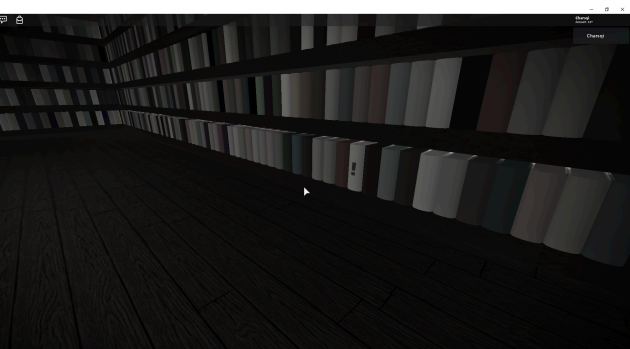

In the other room there is something on fire, maybe the library set fire, and the game is the newly built version.

This is all I could find in this game.

Back in the library, there are two more teleports.

Near the back of the library, there is another exclamation mark on a book. This changes the sign's name to "Chrome."

This is an all grey game, with a town. There is someone there and you ask them how they are, and about the last time you visited. I couldn't find anything else in that game.

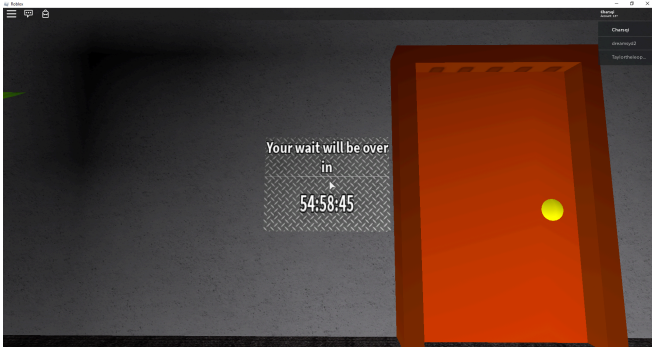

The last teleport is called "Marigold." It also changes the sign name to that also.

Marigold is in a waiting room, and you can talk to the people there. It is brightly coloured and not like the rest of the games. The people talk about how there is someone over there, talking to themselves and they don't know why. The other person you ask questions about why there are the same paintings, the answer is "in case they want them all." And also about how we got in this room, and saying there is more than one door, when the only door is closed and has a timer on it for an hour.

I found on the RMH Wiki: "Closed_book has a book called "Marigold" that has the user play the game for an hour. When done waiting, there will be a game that the user can play next and will have to wait several months for the next game teleporter."

(This is outside the map, the sign says: "Nothing to see here.")

THEORIES

My theory is that the original library might have burned down, and a new one was built. The missing posters in the game might show the people that used to visit the old library.

CONCLUSION

My conclusion is closed_book only comes online to update games. No hunters have seen him before, maybe he will return to roblox and be interrogated about the library.

*Signed,
Charsqi*