

KP SPEECH 2020

Attention grabber: interesting fact

Kia ora, Ko Karanui toku ingoa. In my class, an amazing 92.6% of the students preferred online learning instead of face-to-face learning. You know what? I believe them

Introduction: State my opinion

I think that online learning appeals more to children my age. It gives me freedom to choose and lots of opportunities to take responsibility for my own learning. If you don't feel the same, maybe I can change your mind

Body of my speech: 4 reasons and 4 examples

Let's talk about all the choices I have. Like improving my division using mathletics or maths buddy. These online tools help me because I can keep doing it until I can understand it. I love all this extra time I am getting. I get to choose the stuff I want to do and avoid the stuff I don't want to do. Of course I choose maths. I really need to improve on that. I love that I always have time to improve my learning because it's so easy to access.

Secondly, during lockdown I had a lot more family time than I expected. My mum always helped me understand my maths. She also helped me write better descriptive stories. My dad helped do some outside projects like making swings, but I still had some irritating responsibilities. Having all the tools I needed online, made it easier for Mum and Dad to get involved in my learning. I could even get out of doing jobs because I had so much learning to do.

Responsibility is something I have to have all the time with my online learning. I have managed my time carefully like concentrating hard in one learning area, then moving on to something else. It is my responsibility to choose to work for longer or shorter. Some days during lockdown, I worked for 4 and a half hours Some days I worked for 7 and a half hours! If it weren't for online learning I would've had no learning during lockdown because my ministry pack came late. That suck's, well... better late than never

Now let's talk about Opportunities! Because of online learning, I have Online skills and I can collaborate with my classmates, you name it I probably did it. My favourite one was to share my learning with the world by posting it on my blog! I also had an opportunity to make an instructional slide and present it to my classmates to help them learn too. These are things I couldn't do in a workbook.

Conclusion: Summarise my opinion

Online learning is always available. It lets me choose the learning I want to do, makes me take more responsibilities and it provides more opportunities to share my learning and help my friends with theirs. That is why, Online learning is way better than face-to-face learning. Thank you for coming and letting me voice my opinion!
