Death of a Salesman Deleted Scene

- With a group (up to 5) or with a partner, using your understanding of the characters for the basis of your writing, create a scene for the characters in Death of a Salesman that could, conceivably, have taken place.
- Your scene can take place in the past, present, or future (or a combination of those) and should fit in with the "narrative world" created by Arthur Miller. You may choose a scene with as few or many characters as you like, so long as they appear in the play.
- You may not change the plot of the original play.

- The scene should be 3-10 minutes.
- You will use a proper script format.
- Use props.
- Act it out. (You may read from scripts. I don't expect you to memorize it.)

Keep it in the "narrative world" of Death of a Salesman.