

To,

The girl I love the most,

It is not possible to express my feelings through words about how much I love you and what you mean to me. You mean the whole world to me and I cannot lose you by any means.

People say that 'happiness' starts with a 'h' but mine starts with you. I still get the same butterflies still now that I got the first time I saw you. I wish to spend my whole life with you and make many memories together so that we can recall them when we grow older.

It is said that a woman can change a man through her love and you're that woman of my life. You are my happy place and I cannot afford to lose you at any cost. I want my children to look at our pictures and say that we want our love life like mom and dad.

The day when I saw you for the first time the time stopped, everything seemed blurred to me except you and I will never forget

A happy starting always has a happy ending, and I hope we get to enjoy ourselves together forever and have a happy ending. You should keep in mind that I will always be there supporting you and keep loving you till my last breath. I love you a lot.

Forever yours,
