

Libertas State Testing Information 2024-2025

Tennessee Comprehensive Assessment Program (TCAP)
Students in schools across the state will take state summative assessments in general education subject areas—including English language arts (ELA), math, science, and social studies—to show what they know and collect valuable data to inform strategic decision-making on how to best support Tennessee students.

NWEA MAP Testing: Math, Reading, and Reading Fluency
NWEA is given three times per year as a benchmark measure for reading and math, and the reading fluency is also given three times per year as part of our Universal Reading Screener. We use this data to determine need/eligibility for reading and math tutoring, and to screen for possible recommendations for IEP services.
