(Connecting People Via Personalities)

Tagline: Connecting People Via Personalities and Improving Bond by Group Missions.

The problem it solves:

->In today's world social media is just a platform for sharing photos/videos or a creator/consumer thing. Every social media has its own niche but no actually fulfil or focus on the making of bonds between people.

->Nowadays people are socializing with the same friend or even in some cases the number of friends has decreased. People are becoming socially introverted and want to make new friends but fear reaching out to them as no common topic exists (During the pandemic due to lockdown the possibility of meeting new people has also vanished).

->Introverts find it tremendously difficult to start a conversation or reach out to a person to establish friendship. We made our first friends in school where we sat together with friends, talked about some common topics, collaborated on group projects, and that is how the bond strengthened.

->Taking Idea from the very same process we are here with a totally different form of social media where people can connect and socialize with others on the basis of their personality with whom you are going to perform your next mission. So that people can connect on How the Person Really is and give them competitive tasks for strengthening their bond

- Why this can be the next Big thing?

->A social media focusing on Improving the bond between people, which is needed in every stage of life, In School, college, Corporate.It will also teach us how to be a team Player

-> Imagine how amazing it would be to make new friends and share thoughts, feelings and knowledge with whom we can really connect and socialize on basis of their personalities. Our lives would change and who knows the online friends can outperform offline ones and can establish a bright relationship.
