Question: 1) Window or Aisle?
Window   191
Aisle   115

I'm an aisle guy, I like the freedom to stand up whenever I'd like and bestride the luxurious aisles. But I promise I am a good aisle guy, I don't build an elaborate mousetrap of wires and crap on my tray such that people on the inside don't feel like it's worth the effort to ask me to move.

Question: 2) Heads or Tails?
Heads   233
Tails   73

Interestingly, this actually had one of the largest skews, but in Question 10, very few people thought other people would think it would have a large skew. For those wondering, Matthew Slater called Heads to get the ball first when the Patriots beat the Falcons in OT (the "28 - 3" Super Bowl).

Question: 3) Sunrise or Sunset?
Sunset   247
Sunrise   59

Not a lot of runners in this group I see :)

Question: 4) Odds or Evens?
Evens   216
Odds   90

Hmm, how can I use this information to my benefit? I routinely lose to my wife in Rock, Paper, Scissor. Like, I win 10% of the time, at best.

Question: 5) Hot or Cold?
Hot   227
Cold   79

You can always put on another sweater when it's cold, but the reverse strategy quickly reaches an end game if it is too hot!

Question: 6) Truth or Dare?
Truth   206
Dare   100

I wonder if this is one of those questions for which it would be better for a couple to have the same answers or different answers.

```
Question: 7) Good or Plenty?
Good      247
Plenty     59
```

And yet Americans' buying habits, whether it is food portions or ridiculously-sized trucks, suggest the opposite.

```
Question: 8) Ben or Jerry?
Ben       172
Jerry     134
```

I suppose this question gets down to whether you have a Ben or Jerry in your life that you like / don't like. This is always a tough topic when teachers have babies, coming up with a name that hasn't been "tainted" by a prior student can be hard!

```
Question: 9) Take it or leave it?
Take it    223
Leave it    83
```

I don't have demographic info, but my suspicion is that this question has the largest age bias to it, with the younger tending toward 'take it' while those with more experience in the work world opting for 'leave it' lest you find yourself on a new committee.

```
Question: 10) Which question will have the largest skew from an even split?
Window or Aisle       61
Sunrise or Sunset     55
Hot or Cold           38
Good or Plenty        37
Truth or Dare         35
Take it or Leave it   22
Ben or Jerry          22
Heads or Tails        22
Odds or Evens         14
```

I admit, I love the meta-questions when it makes sense to ask one – I'm sure I've missed many opportunities! Any way to make Sheep more recursive than it already is.
