

Molim da ispod zapišeš svoje doživljaje za svaki dan. Ono što je bitno jedino tvom domaćinu ne trebaš pisati. -Elion

16.11.2013. - Day 1

Plans, directions, possibilities and what not. I am back again to the same place as i was before. The same timeline as i can see as well. Apparently, there are many more. I have noticed the memories and dreams of my host. He has shown me much to think about.

As i come back to this place. I see that i am still the same traitor and enemy in the eyes of others. Nothing new and nothing to be surprised of. I did my best and i will do my best to make my mission of success. My host had done well. I have instructed him and planted an idea in his mind that if i was ever to return here and if i was alive, he should be aware of me and he should work as a sleeper agent until i arrive. His mind should alter his way of thinking and he should invite each and every host that was before, along with other possible hosts to an event, gathering them all together, seeing as to who leaves early can be a as a suspicious person to look out for. As i believe that there are many of us here.

The plan worked as intended, as my plan goes further, this is only the start. They do not know why am i exactly here and what am i doing. What is on my mind is to be said later on as i have many plans to unfold. Currently i am working on contacting the rest of the Amani and if possible Kalesti too.

As i entered this existence here on Earth i am surprised after all that entered the same host. Even as i planted the idea into the host as a failsafe mechanism i did not really know that i would enter his mind once more. He is confused, tired and exhausted from the memories and dreams that he was receiving, just like an "antenna" as these humans call it, they surprise me more and more. Fascinating. As i came to be here once again, i was furious and angry, all my power was focused on one dot, on one thing.

What happened exactly? I honestly can't remember much other than the council has forced and sent me here along with E'gar and A'linor. As i remembered their hosts i immediately tried to contact A'linor. He attacked me when i tried to talk to him. He was angry at me for my past, more than the last time? I do not understand why. Well, i understand why he would be angry at what i did the last time of course, but why the sudden hate for me? I have never seen such hate before. Hopefully i can get to the bottom of this as soon as possible. For now, i consider him a minor threat and not an option to be bothered with as i have other things to attend to. E'gar on the other hand is as usual focused on his sister and wondering if she is still alive. As this is really a minor concern i too would like to know if she is safe. If she is, that is very good news and i am happy because of that. If she is not, sadness would touch me but i can't let that blind me and keep me detached from my mission. He on the other hand is a huge liability and he could be a problem later. I can feel it. He must be restrained if something happens to her.

A'lana... I really wish we could be the friends we were once. I missed her all this time, even if she was with Melki at the end. I am trying my best not to forget l'yani and i will do my best to bring her back if anyway is even possible to bring her back. I know there is, i will help her at this task as much as i can, while i am doing something else on the side. Where there is life, there must be destruction.

We talked for sometime, the past still haunts her as assumed and i do not see any other reason then to fully hate me. The other Melki that were there, their names escape me at this moment. They did not resemble much hate towards me, i understand they were former Kalesti. Surprising but still, two less threats to worry about and i can add them to my plans later on.

Klara, the so called prophet is a good friend to this host. He tried to calm her down and told her what is really going on after all of this. Marko, the host that had O'ronis, is now active as i am. But with the father of O'ronis. This is bad, as i am the one that is the fault as to why he died. I myself don't think that i am the direct cause and they are overreacting to all of this. But let them focus on anger, it will blind them to what is to come. I am going to use my past as cover for now. I have no time to really dabble in my past. I know what i did and i am sorry as i said so many times. I have no time for such trivialities.

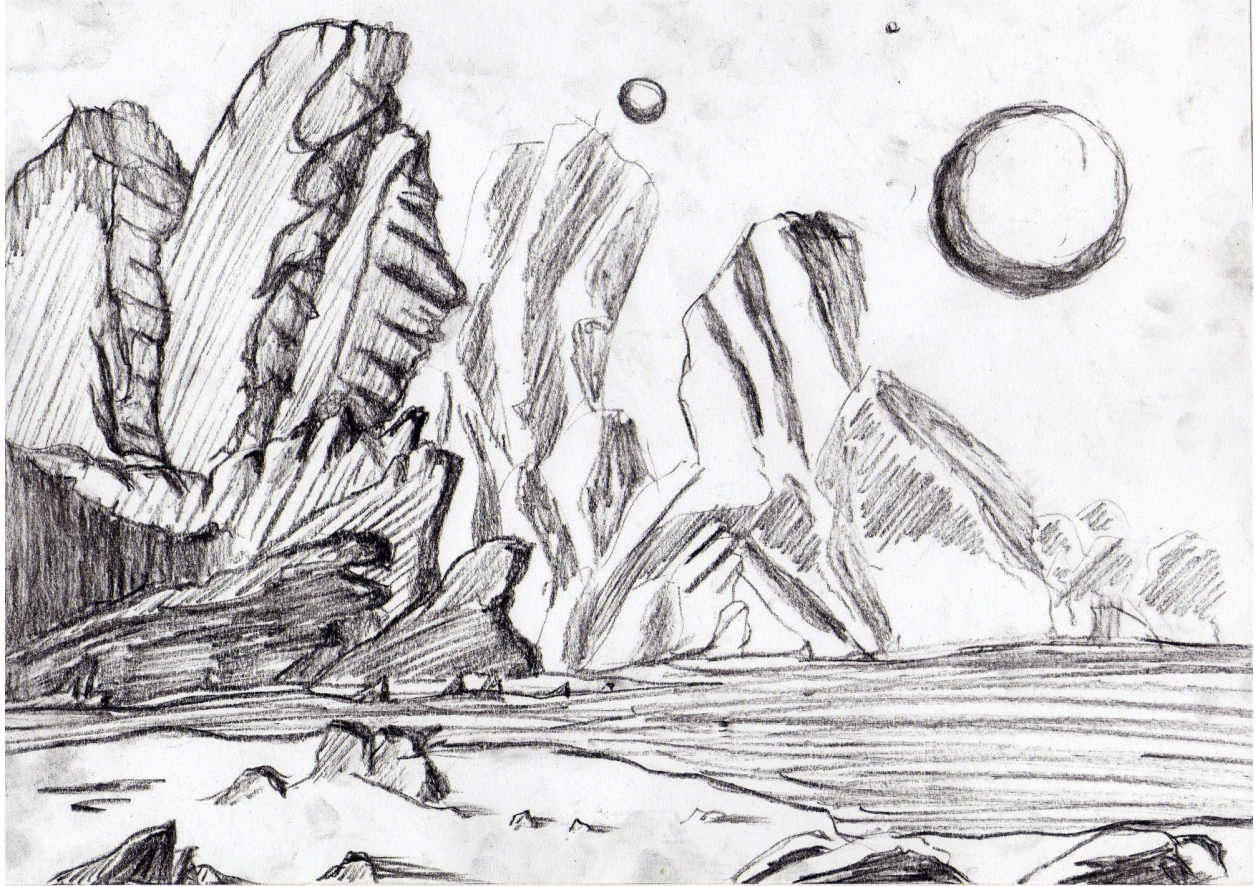

For now the day has passed and nothing bad has happened yet. While the rest of the Amani awaken i shall stand close by and watch as thing unfold. I am scared that many will try to destroy me or my host for what i have done I have the feeling of being watched at every possible corner, that everyone i know here and as everyone knows my host they are all a possible threat. Many know me and many talk about me and my host. I am not safe, we are not safe and most importantly. We agree on this. We must be careful as events take their place.

I will continue to write when something new happens. For now i must observe and plan new things out. The storm has arrived.

To continue. Mana, the essence that i crave for is again in demand, i can feel this withered body barely sustaining to what i can muster, even as we all share the same pool here i somehow feel sick just by sharing to what i have left inside of me. These hands can no longer contain to what i need to take, this body is somehow becoming a flawed conduit to store the energy... I never felt like this before... This should be a routine as any other like before. but its not like before! I crave for more then what i am being given and shared.. Ugh what is this... I should put this on for later until i find out what is going on with me. It will be hard to lie about this, I can't lie anymore i can't risk lying or telling anything other then the truth. Even if i want to protect the ones I love, the ones I care for. It is such a shame that nobody believes me. They are all focusing on the past on what has happened, only blaming me. They only care enough to keep me alive as i am somehow a use to them. More then that, they need me and they know it more than ever. I just wish they could focus on the task at hand much more then on my betrayal...

A "hero" of Amani. A betrayer of friends, the liar and deceiver. And inside all i feel is shame and hate.

I remember Korifax... The small part of it. Before we could even process the land itself. I remember the ruins nearby...

17.11.2013. - Day 2

With no luck i can't seem to get in contact with the rest of the Amani, i am working blind here and nobody wants to help me. My thoughts and my host are the only voices i hear during the day.

I am trying to gather all of us so that we can start these negotiations, but i have a feeling that they do not want me there. Perhaps they are doing them without me? That is good, i hope they are because it would mean that somebody is doing something! I am helpless here and i can't do a single thing being trapped here.

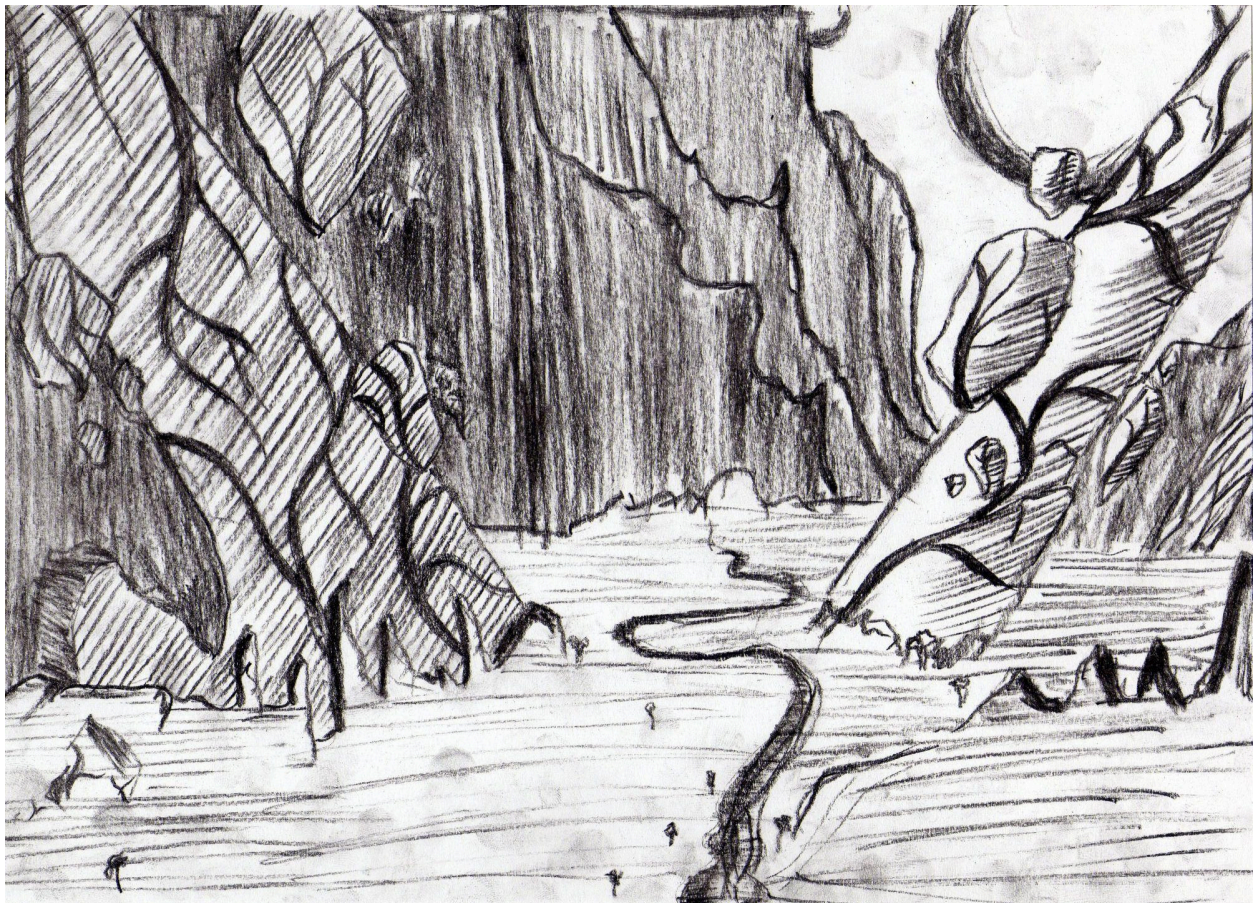

The portals were sabotaged as expected. I know from a source that they were planned to out keep someone out, but who and why? I can't even start to think on what this thing or person might be to sabotage all this, and what i heard about possible other dimension now? Ugh, even i can't grasp on how much things are going on.

E'gar is the only one that talks to me openly. I can't even try to contact A'lana and A'linor there is no need, they only have hate for me.

What happened to us.. What happened to Amani power.. What happened to l'yani... If they only knew the struggle i have each day of my existence, the pain i have in me. The event on Korifax, the soul thing that made all this happen. Nobody to listen to me, nobody to hear me honestly say that i am truly sorry. But all i can do is be strong, act as if i have a strong will and the strenght to be brave. What else is there to do now.

Perhaps i should indulge myself in something else to make the time go by a little faster...

I remember the ruins nearby. All of a sudden these images come back to me. All of what i have be through back there. At the event horizon... Those where the ruins there, pulsing with life. Everything was lush and green. Melki ruins.

And as we head back, to the place where we first gathered, right before everything hit us. I remember the place that we were all together.

18.11.2013. - Day 3

Today i tried to contact Klara to see what is going on. She does not have the time to speak to me or my host. I did find out however that there is a connection to the alternative dimension part and the prophets/hunters. They seem to be gathering together and making their own alliance. I must say, my trust in her is fading since they seem to be working with the hunters themselves.

A'lana contacted me, asked for some questions. They were not really relative to the situation now, mostly about the past. On how i should be sorry and forgiveness and such. Nothing new here, i offered help. But my help is not needed. Only noted.

I said to E'gar today that i am stepping out from the negotiations, my plan is no longer in effect. I will leave it all to them to work this out. I don't even know why the council sent me here. I have no support from anyone. Besides E'gar who is willing to help, but i will send him on his way. He is needed out there much more then what i need him.

El'essa contacted me earlier. I am happy that someone did after all this time. She was in stasis in the flux for over 6 months.. I can't imagine how she feels, she knows so little as to what is going on. She would like to trust me, but i told her not to. Besides, i instructed her to come in contact with the rest of Amani so that she can find some protection. She needs to get back safely home. E'tar needs to know that her daughter is alright. I hope that she will be okay for the rest of our stay here. I answered all and any questions she might have. It is good to know that more survived Korifax, i am very happy with that.

So far i can't really say anything new other than the fact that Hunters have begun to mobilize and destroying our mana nets. Or, is it really them? I honestly cannot know. It might be Kalesti trying to get their own mana up. I can't see any negotiations underway and i don't know what mana nets have been put as their own. Its once again a free for all. Mana is slowly gathering and we will have just enough to get back home. While i myself here am starving for mana.

I tried to meditate more and more but i am having some strange side effects. The hosts arm is being deformed and veins are popping out. with black color! I have no idea what is going on and i don't know who to contact with help... Maybe this is some side effect from coming back to the same host, maybe the rest are having the same trouble as i am. I cannot say for sure. Whatever it is, i hope it goes away, other humans might notice this and i can't hide it for long. Better to stay hidden and right where i am, there is nothing i can do here.

19.11.2013. -Day 4

Chaos my old friend. Where have been all this time? Have we forgotten each other so soon? What happened last time? Do you remember. My good friend Chaos, destruction and lies. We are here once again to this point of time. Where everything is nothing. Or is it? Ah yes, i know this game well. I feel like my plans are still in effect.

And they truly are...

To recap. I think i am not from this timeline. I thought i was the right timeline. But it appears that perhaps I am the one that came from a different portal. I am not sure. I will have to research this further. Since only the ones that were in Stasis are the ones that seem to be different. But i could be wrong.

Ao'star is collecting supporters. Being the Alaki on this planet can give him full control. He has abilities that are unknown to me. They are destructive to say the least. He is bound to self destruct. By looking at his actions i see myself in them the last time i was here. He believes in the good of all of us, while only looking through a glass as thick as this fog of lies that is under us. I do not trust him, under any way possible. But that does not mean that i cannot use him. A puppet to be used for sure, i just have to be ready to know for sure that i am not the puppet all this time.

Kel'shiron has been destroyed. His existence is no longer with us. Though, i have felt it that he has died in another way. Something is going on here... The ripple effect that i have sensed. The convergense. The vision. An entire timeline has been destroyed. So many deaths. I can hear them scream, all snuffed out in one moment of time... This is.. I can't even begin to understand to what is going on here. What i do believe is that.. Something is going on with me.

The mana surge happened today. My essence is stronger, i can feel it. I can feel a change as i am becoming something much more. Something that is not Melki, not Kalesti and certainly not Amani. Elion could help me understand this more. I will ask him if he senses anything.

I feel power beyond my own abilities. I can feel my strength reaching higher and higher, but to what point? I am not sure. This is new to me. My host is scared and his body is reacting to this. His entire structure is changing. I am changing.

There is so much that i want answer to..

A'lana has offered me to join them. Melki. They sense that i can become one of them. But i do not want to be a part of them. I am Amani, or whatever it is that i am becoming. I will not join any side. I am on my own side. They can chose to follow me or not. I may lead them to salvation or destruction. It is unsure, but i know that i will do the right thing in the end. Or will i? Destruction will answer that in moments time. She is strange i must say... She says that i should tell her everything before anyone, that is something i cannot do or trust. It always begins like this. Always has a starting point.

The seed of doubt has been planted. We are watering the tree to become stronger and stronger, with it. When i bears fruit it will destroy us all. And none of them want to listen to my pleas. Hopefully. Tomorrow when i meet a few of them we can settle some things for sure. I will place guards outside with 3 different units that none of them are aware of. They will not see each other as i have planned to put them away from each other. Just in case if hunters try to come.

I have devised something that may trick hunters into thinking i have a weapon. I will have to lie and hopefully nobody asks me under Veritas that its fake. I need intimidation and bluff to fool them if they attack. Since this meeting is not about just talking and seeing others. Its a trap i devised to see who is the betrayer, if there is one.

Elion confirmed it. There is something changing. I just had a vision. Not like a vision but more of a... How to say meld with some other entity? Or entities? I do not know for sure, i feel like i am alone in this but there is so much more that i am not capable to understand. There is also a symbol. Something that keeps haunting me now. Something that keeps me locked in it. A symbol i have never seen before...What are you...

What is this.. I can clearly see but i cannot.. Where should i look for guidance...

I should make preparations if something is about to happen. If others find out that i am changing they will surely try to do something about it. I can't trust anyone. But O'tharis seems to be trustworthy. He is doing so much for all of us. It is a shame he does not know that maybe Klara, the prophet cannot be truly Veritased. The truth she speaks may not be the real truth she is saying. I am not sure of it completely..

I am going to meditate more on this. Will focus on the symbol more and try to see what comes up. Perhaps answers may come to me instead of me coming to them.. So tired.. Must meditate...

20.11.2013. - Day 5

Of all the days, i have to say this one was more then interesting to say the least. Allot of things have happened and i should start from the beginning. I called a meeting with Amani today so that all that have answers might get a more clearer vision of who i am and what i am doing here. I have sent Ao'star to be as backup just in case something happens. Though, he did not show up and will talk later on what has happened to him.

i met with E'gar first. We went to Bacchus in Zagreb and were stationed there, discussing old stories from Korifax and from our Kapital.. It is good to be in a normal conversation above all else these days, i relaxed more then i should, after all that has happened. One problem is that he suspects me, well in a way like others but he does not know that i suspect more on him and her sister. I know E'rissa is Melki, i did not need to be told by O'tharis or by A'lana that simple information. But the other information that i received from O'tharis is that she was with Kel'shiron when he was exiled and they did not exile here. This is serious and he does not want to talk about her. He still protects her as always and i believe that it may be a problem later on. Yet, E'rissa is not here with us and i have not seen her in a while so i can let this slide. For now.

After some time Ke'thanis showed up. I was not expecting him truth be told. he was sent to make sure that i don't.. Explode. How quaint. If i wanted to obliterate them all by now i would have done it. People have issues when someone has more power that they think that i cannot control. Yet i am in full control of everything that i do. Okay, perhaps not the visions but this still holds true. Unlike the last time i was here.

We talked about Melki mostly while E'gar was doing his research on the human technology and communicating with Elion. He is working really hard i must say i appreciate his hard work. Unlike the last time, he was only focused on his sister, now that she is out of the way per-say he is more focused on the task at hand. Like a true warrior should be from Amani.

I have relevant information to the Melki, and i have given them as much as i can. Along with on how their master being is not all that good as they think that it is. It is keeping them locked in secrets that only Melki can access. I do not like secrets anymore than i did before. And this is something that me and O'tharis have been talking tonight. There is a way, a possibility that you can reverse a Melki to tell all he can without being Exiled immediately. It is a long shot but hopefully we can achieve this after the negotiations are done. I myself know alot about them since the visions have been occurring. But i seem to be silent now. No more visions. Perhaps they come back later on. As for now i can hear my own thoughts without a problem.. It is good, yet i crave for more information day by day.

An Amani joined us today. La'sara. She had many questions, but she mostly asked about my past as usual. Everyone wants to know about Li'naris and his past.. How trivial. None of them are eager to ask as to what and why my visions are, and the fact that i have seen Kel'shiron die in another timeline, another dimension has died with him. This is something i really need to get some answers to. This cannot just go unnoticed. Whatever happened it may happen again. Hopefully i won't blackout like the last time... That was a terrible experience.

Klara was there too, but i can only feel distrust in her. Perhaps in time we could be on more peaceful conditions.As for now we are merely people who need each other. Her information is more valuable then ever and i appreciate that.

After the long time in that place i proceeded to go and meet O'tharis. We talked for a couple of hours, mainly on the possibilities and what else is going on. I am more focused on the secondary things while everyone else is focused on the main task. The negotiations and hunters. I deal with the visions, possible threats,secret weapons against us if there are and many more.

I did not know that his son placed so much faith me. It is new to me, i really did not know. We always had laughs about our age and such but we do not have the same father. Curious thing before though, we never had time to talk about our fathers. I never knew mine, everyone here has someone, a sister,a brother,a daughter, a mother or a father yet i have only myself in my line of family. I can't even say the word family because i only have myself. Yet the Amani that are here are growing on me and they are becoming more and more friendly with me. I am surprised to say that this is happening.

I am wondering on what planet is Ildir. El'essa keeps mentioning it.In my memory i do not seem to have it. Yet she has been in stasis for 6 months. She is interested in me then most Amani. I am not pleased with that since when anyone has interest in me its because they need something. Either my help or my kowledge on the situation at hand. She wants to ask so much, i cannot give her anything more then what i should. I do not completely trust her since she had so much dealings with Ao'star.

Ao'star was the leak to Kalesti. As much as he was the mole, i do not consider him as one since Amani and Kalesti are in good terms and i see no harm if they were getting our information to them. He has exiled himself along with a Kalesti. I am sorry to say that my feelings on this are neutral as i had no time to meet him in person and whatever happened shall stay locked away and whatever reason those two had to do is a reason good enough to do such a thing i say.

Now about Oracle Tijana.. She is proven to be quite useful. Yet i sense danger in her. And i can't shake it off. She seems to want to help me in every way possible but her info is strange and most of the times not proven. She offered to mind meld with me in order to unlock some secrets from the past and future. I agree to this but with escort. So one fellow Amani will follow me on this, to who it might be i do not know. Perhaps i could call Klara to assist, she is not Amani but i feel that this would help us both in talking more with each other and she may not see me as such as a destroyer of worlds as she thinks that i am. It is open for discussion on what will i do in the next day or two. For now i am sceptic that this might work or do me harm because i have never attempted such a thing and i do not know what knowledge she might hide in her own locked up memory.

A'lana seems to trust me more and more. Yet i feel that what she knows can be either salvation or doom on us all. The Melki are hiding something and with the help of some individuals we can look deeper into this. I am glad that we had a normal talk after so much time. We did not mention Korifax not even once during our conversation. It makes me feel a little bit better on the whole situation.

The next day is upon me. Where is Chaos all of a sudden? He seems to be missing...

For now...

21.11.2013. - Day 6

The New Alaki has been appointed. Happy to say it is O'tharis. I honestly can't say that anyone else would be right for the job here. I just hope is not going to risk everything for one person.. Like.. l'yani... He is wise and his age can prove this. I do not know his past, nor from where does he come from. But knowing his son i know he is a good Amani and he will aid us as much as he can. Even though i agree E'gar is appointed as the next in line if something happens to O'tharis, i am unsure as to that i want a military leader instead of a reasonable diplomat. Because if something happens with..

The idea is.. Because E'rissa is a Melk, and i found out this just recently, she was not exiled while in the same room with the hunters when Kel'shiron wa exiled. Why did they let her go? Why did they just let her go... They could have found out that it was her too? Or perhaps she is working with them? She does not seem to answer any of my messages to her. Even through Elion. She keeps ignoring my questions and they need to be answered.

So i have this crazy idea, as always. That E'gar made a deal with the hunters to spare her life. In exchange to what? Many things come to mind. While we are going to attack them in a couple of days time. If even one of the hunters falls down that day. This all falls down as pure speculation. But what if i am right and it is not them who will fall that day?

I know E'gar. If he would have to chose between this planet with billions and billions of souls and his sister. He would instantly without a flinch save his sister instead of this planet. And that worries me in so many ways... I wish i could get answers, perhaps the Oracle can help me with this.

l'yani has returned. From an alternative dimension. Everyone is happy about that except me of course. I have such bad feelings about this. And as much as i have learned from today's events. She hates Kalesti to the core and in her dimension they are in war, full effect actually. I might talk to her if i get the chance and ask as to what did i do in this dimension. How did i not feel this... How did i not see this coming. I thought those visions would help me, but they have stopped. Perhaps if i meld with Tijana the Prophet i may get more answers. Hopefully i can arrange a meeting with her in a days time and we can see what she has to show me.

I feel as if i am not doing as much as i can for everyone. Being stuck here is torture on all the things they are doing together out there. Then i again i should be happy that i am out of danger. But collecting information day by day keeps getting harder as more and more questions rise and more things come up. E'gar is still under suspicion. And i intend to use Veritas on him to find out about his sister. Its not about how you ask the questions, its about what question you ask. Just like the last time, nobody found out about me because they did not answer the proper question.

I made contact with another prophet by the name of Domagoj, or Violynce as his names is written in that technology that the host uses. He is proven to be a difficult one and like to play games. I know much more than him, but i want to be sure that nothing slips by. Acting like i have no idea may make him tell me something. For now it seems like its futile, but i don't give up just yet.

I have talked to A'linor today. He has really changed, i have never seen him like this. He is so cold... I can't feel that he is an Amani anymore. He is strange beyond my comprehension, cold and ready for a war. He wants one to be exact. But with who and why? I don't know... Everyone seems to have the same feeling yet nobody is doing anything about it in any way possible. I hope i am wrong about him, i really hope i am.. Same goes for E'gar...

I go again back into my past. Remembering Korifax, the place that we all were. We settled there at a place where it was best for the expedition. I myself did not chose where we would be, i only know that we had your crystal harmonizer there, as a beacon for the rest of us when we go further away from each other. The place where me and l'sal bickered about pointless things.. Who could do better, who could be better at what... Right before the storm hit us.. It was peaceful, calm. Warm and everlasting.. I don't think that i will ever feel the same way again...

22.11.2013. - Day 7

Chaos, you come to visit again! I am pleased to hear you are doing well... You have been busy i see... I would say allot more about today if i only could but i appear to be out of the loop. I have shared my personal talks with A'lana for all to see. This was not planned in any way but it was needed and it actually helped a lot in a sense. Pavle Pelikan, a prophet i assume, has contacted almost a couple of minutes right before it became public. Now i am more then sure that someone is feeding all of this info to prophets. Who it might be, i can't point a finger now since it could be anyone. Well.. Not anyone to be precise but... I shouldn't think too much about this right now, i have other tasks to do.

So l'yani just got back, from an alternative universe... It was probably the ritual that me and A'lana talked about, no confirmation yet, no evidence too.. I am out of the loop and do not know what is going on exactly. I am happy that she is back, i am overwhelmed by it.. Yet i can't shake it off again, doubt is still here. They say that she is going to adapt to our timeline, but there are so many questions left unanswered. I hope they spend eternity together happy. I wish nothing more then the end of all of this suffering and mistrust.

There was some kind of a hunt today on the hunters. That sounds a little bit funny saying that. But we can only call them hunters. I got not other names for them. I hope everything went okay.

So far none of our own have been exiled and so far everything is okay. I will continue to write about this when i get more info on today!

If i ever go back home, and if i survive this again. I will leave Amani space, if it will be even called like that after the convergence. I will leave to the endless stars, wandering and searching for knowledge and planets to mold in my vision. Leaving them there for other beings to see and wonder. Perhaps go look for other beings, be among them and investigate what they have to offer. After all, knowledge is power in a sense. But i am more interested in exploring the universe then anything else. I like that idea.. I really do E'gar has shown me some weird runes today. I have never seen them before, they are not from this world or perhaps not even from this timeline. They carry a lot of knowledge in them i can sense that. But to read them? I have no clue on what they represent. I really wish i could help them more, but i am stuck here for now.

Amani do seem to trust me more now. A'lana almost freaked out but she says she trusts me, for now. She keeps repeating that over and over, but alas i will have to fail her trust once again, when the time comes and if it comes i have a feeling that i will have to. We are always at that little line, always ready to snap, and right there where it should snap and make it all fall down, somehow it holds. I am happy that everyone here has someone to rely on. Everyone has somebody in a way. Someone that protects them, someone that keeps their hopes up and someone to give them a little bit of company at the right time when they need it. I don't have much though. I have... I have ummm.. Well, lets keep it at that i.. Ugh...

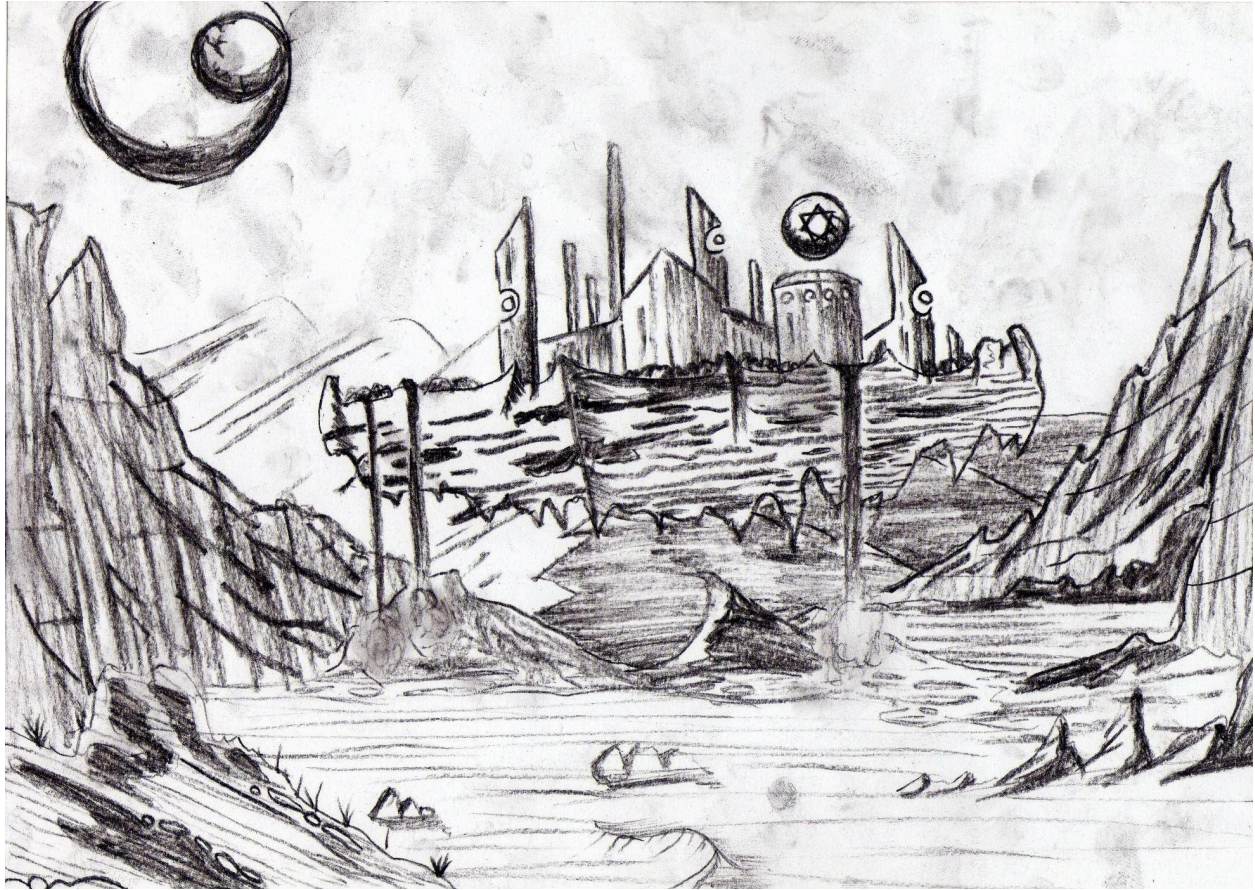

Tomorrow is going to be a special day and i am worried sick of it already. I am going to meet with prophet Tijana, she has warned me that there is some kind of strange influence by another person. This is even more risky now, but i am allowed to use an escort and E'gar will be there to protect me, unless he is working with her or them.. Quite possible i must say and i wont rule anything out. But if my time has come then it is tomorrow. Or perhaps i might yet to live another day...

As far as the visions go. Everyone keeps asking me do i have something new to share, some new kind of information. But how can i make them understand that this is not something that i can control, this is not something that i can activate at will and not something i am eager to continue with it since it lacks evidence in for others. They can only trust my words and my words alone. And from my past that is difficult for some. No new energy spikes, no ripples of any kind. I did not even detect the time incursion. I am not that special after all.

I will continue to focus on my information gathering. Hopefully tomorrow i will get some kind of answers at all. I am worried i really am. What if some.. What if i... I should stop, if i start to doubt too much i may become the man i was before. Not everything can be bad in everything. I have to calm down, be reasonable and stay calm no matter what. Some people depend on me..

Time to meditate on the past for a brief moment...

As i remember Lionir, before i left. It was a magical place full of mana, my birthplace. E'tar gave me some land to mold, and i did. I had my own personal area where i could do as i wanted, but i always wanted more. To sculpt and to create. I remember how it all was back then, nobody talked about the war, nobody said anything about Kalesti, not to mention Melki, none of them mattered. I had my work to do, while only 370 years old, i knew nothing what was going at the outer Amani space, i was close to home, always peaceful and calm. What i wouldn't give to have that peace again...

Ahhhh... Elondir. It wasn't a place i was used to, very little mana on the planet, but it had the beauty in it. That was where i met A'lana. I tend not to think about what we had, well .We had nothing to be precise. But it was fun, back then, it was all about fun. I remember the place where we used to be. The great Amani palace. Only on Elondir you could see how beautiful creation can really be, with such limited mana you are not focused on the details of creating, but rather simplicity. Perhaps i should focus on something else now. I have much work to do.

23.11.2013. - Day 8

A lot has happened today... Really a lot, i can't get to the whole details, but i will try to get it all out as much as i can. The day went as any other day. I meditated on my visions but they seem to be missing, and i hope they stay that way after what i have discovered.

Today i met Tijana in Zagreb, with E'gar as backup just in case something happens. The ritual began and i received a vision of 3 symbols that were merged together. Amani, Kalesti, Melki, and allot of other stuff i am not sure on what they are supposed to mean correctly yet... Owl,dove and a snake. These puzzles are getting on my nerves and i have become completely out of the loop. I have never felt this useless.

After the vision has been passed on to others, i completely made everyone else confused and making me questioned under Veritas the entire day. Getting real sick and tired of it. Is it really that hard to trust me? No, i can't answer that, i can't trust myself even now to what is happening. Me and E'gar met up with El'essa later on. I have discovered that she can use song of destruction and a spell that makes her go in a stasis, the same way she got here 6 months later. I can't tell anyone yet, by under E'gar i mean, as he does not want everyone else to know. I will tell Klara and O'tharis that i suspect that she can, i trust them enough to tell them but without confirming that i really know. Because... If something happens with E'gar and El'essa i need them thinking that their secrets are safe, because they clearly have other plans with that El'essa can do. I feel strange knowing the fact that someone else can sing the song of destruction... I now know how everyone feels about me, i know exactly why they treat me like they do now. Because i treat El'essa the way they treated me. What a spin off i say...

After that the negotiations have begun today. So me and E'gar went of to talk with some of the Amani, Melki and Klara joined us there as well. We were all together at one place and they were all looking at me, as if i was ready to sing and destroy them all. I only laughed and stayed calm the entire time. While they were negotiating about peace, all i was thinking about was the convergence. Then they asked me on what kind of colors do i see in them. To that i replied with a simple lie. I needed to lie, i need them to think that i know this. I didn't need to lie about what color is l'yani, i already had a clue that she should be one of the Melki already. I believe she has found her destruction in it. I do not know what the Melki still represent. But i guess that we will find out soon enough. Talking about the visions, about portals, about who to trust and who not to trust, it is all a simple game that chaos devised and its working out as chaos intended. Its building up, it growing and i am the only one that can sense it. But i have my own plans. I have my own means to defeat it and send it back to where it came from.. .And that is from the past itself.

It did not take too long to start using Veritas on me, shortly after they still ask the wrong questions, lucky for me none of my plans came out in the end and i was still hold as a neutral in the place. Unstable yes, but still i hold my ground as Amani, and nothing more or less.

After much delegation that it is clear to proceed with the negotiations, we went to another place not far from where we were. Checked that if there are any hunters in there and it was all clear, we sat all together. A'lana,l'yani,Ke'thanis,O'tharis,E'gar,La'sara l'tressa, three Kalesti that i forgot their names at the moment. And suprisingly.. Me.

A'linor did not show up, mostly because his mobile, this technology phone was shut down so we couldn't know where he was, we did not want to send an open invitation through Elion since we did not know who might be on Elion that is delivering our information to others, we couldn't risk it.

To make the matters short. Peace is negotiated, i shook hands the Kalesti and it is done. My mission and my purpose is done. I think i will not be doing much these days, my investigation is proving to be of no use since most of them have much more info on what is going around then me. It was about time that we settled everything, we are working together all three of us. Not in harmony mind you, but still we are focused on one... I mean, they are focused on one thing. And that is the convergence...

What should i say about the convergence? Simply put, i don't trust it one little bit since Melki are hiding something from us and i can't let that go. They can tell me that they want me over and over but i will not join them. I am Amani and i will stay that until i die as an Amani. It does not matter if the convergence becomes Successful, it does not matter if they all be one for eternity. I want to be myself, not everything and anything. I want to travel the stars as i said before. I am tired of all of this bickering and i am ready to go home. Let them handle this as they want to handle it. I did my job for what i was sent here to do. Now i don't have anything to offer them, they work hard each day and learn as much as they can, i can't do that. I am not to be trusted.. With good reason of course but still i fought my way to be there at the negotiations.

They were just discussing negotiations and when the convergence should take hold. Nothing is certain on this, so it is pointless to talk about it since we have many days to go before their plan even goes in motion.

After that. Me, O'tharis and Klara went back to the current home of O'tharis. Oh, i mean Marko, his host. Before we went there i made a little test to see if Klara is controlling O'tharis and to remove doubt, i am sorry that i had to do it, but extreme measures are required sometimes. It went fine and they are both checked, i trust them both now. Almost.

Our hosts were tired and needed much needed fuel and rest so we settled at their home. Talking and let out hosts take some rest. While all of a sudden, a Draak has been exiled. Her name is Nives and she was caught at one of the places Amani and Kalesti went to check out. Not just that but they devised to go catch more of them at a place called Močvara. There they caught another one by the name of Mario. Yet they did not exile him for whatever reason. No matter, if i see him in person i will the job they couldn't. When we got there all stressed out and with more questions then what we had originally i was struck down by my own thoughts..

The Draak said that those visions i was having are from them! That symbol is from them?! WHAT?! Is it real? Can it be?! I feel so sick by the thought that this might be true! I thought it was something good, a sign that i was changing by it, a sign that something good is happening out of all of this but all i get is that i was being fed with some kind of false information by one of them in the end?! I feel sick just by thinking of it and i hope that those visions never come back! Whatever it truly is and whatever it was its gone now, and i don't think it will happen again.

24.11.2013. - Day 9

I have just received information that O'tharis was exiled by Klara. A'lana and l'yani have left this world and there is so much things going on right now that i am at my wits end and my energy is flashing all over the place. What have they been doing out there?! Asani?! What in the universe are Asani?! And what do they have with O'tharis?! I am seriously going to make them give me some answers or i will... I will..

Calm down.. Must.. Meditate...

After further investigation... I found out that La'sara was working with a resistance movement to.. Ugh.. To sabotage everything. A part of the Asani cover up or whatever.. These information are all flimsy at best and i honestly do not know what is going on. They are all there, talking and each of them gives me a different answer... My energy is spiking i need to calm down... Where are the Melki?! I can't get in contact with any of them. A'lana is not here. I'yani is not here. Where the hell is Ke'thanis?! Why isn't here receiving my calls?! Have they all left?! I can't...

Ugh.. This is too much for me... Being unable to do a single thing here. All those visions, all this time i was gathering the wrong information. And this whole time i thought i had a solid plan, the truth is, i now have nothing. Not even a thought at what is going on.

The Draak.Asani.Hunters... They were all just a diversion. Why so many of them want to sabotage this?! And what i have just heard, they are proceeding with the convergence?! WHAT Convergence?! The Melki are no longer here! How are we supposed to do anything right now. We just lost our Alaki, the one who was supposed to lead us here, the only one we COULD have trusted all this time. The one that helped us here. I promised him to bring his son back... What good will that do if his father is not here to see him... There is no need to destroy another timeline now. That plan is now lost.

And what about I'sal.. Nothing as well, nobody will help me to bring him back to this existence. He was the only thing that was a connection to my past. Now i have no one. A'lana was always here to listen to me and to hear on what i have to say..

I no longer trust any of them. No Amani, no Kalesti and certainly not Melki anymore. What am i supposed to do now...

Where should i go...

Who should i call..

I don't know what to do anymore...

I just remembered... Chaos is here. He is my only friend... And he has come to visit us all...

25.11.2013. - Day 10

I am sensing some static on Elion. He is unresponsive, i can't get in contact, as if some kind of a cloud is messing with my thoughts. I can't reach him. As i asked around, Sil on the other side seem to be unresponsive too? This static is really getting annoying right now, i can't get in contact with everybody, what the hell is going on now!?

Ugh i feel weak.. I will.. go .. to .. re...

Everything is okay now. Meditated and calm. E'gar did a good job.. With all the contacts i could never have done such a feat. Though he is much more active on the field and has more access to certain technologies my host cannot have. I wish i could have helped more. But, there are no suspicions on me. That is something, for one thing. They believe me because i do not trust anyone. After O'tharis has been proven to been working behind our backs as na "Asani". I now know how the others must have felt all that time that we were here. I stopped my grief the moment the truth went out. When i found out that he was a traitor and something worse even. It is hard to say where things will go from now on as i really do not know what is what anymore, even with the full details on what is out there. The convergence must be done, yet i still oppose it in my mind. I do not want to sabotage it, i do not want to make it i do not want to be a part of it. Yet it must be done. I will help them as much as i can, i just don't want to be a part of whatever this convergence is. The end of the road is near and i need to make much more decisions before i can any assumptions on what to do in these days to come.

I don't want to run in circles to what i have already said here. But few Amani are left, few even talk to each other. We need to chose a new Alaki and that one needs to be out of this country they call Croatia, where nobody can get to him. This is not even needed to have one, but for the purpose of diplomacy we need to have an Alaki. Whoever they want to chose i will chose for them. There is no need to think of it any further.

The hunters and Draak are being dealt with as we speak and hopefully we will get rid of them once and for all. There is no room for hate, destruction and no room for you Chaos. You and me are done. I no longer wish to be friends with you. No be off. Peace is here to take hold, and i will do my best to make it so that peace wins...

Even if i am ready to help them with the convergence i always have that speck of doubt in my mind. Why do i keep doubting everything i do not know, i just can't help myself, i love & hate to doubt as much as i can. I just wish my doubts go in the right direction after what O'tharis did to all of us.

I grieff more that A'lana and I'yani have left... They wanted to save themselves not to lose each other again. I understand them completely. I understand them.. But we lost the two most important persons here, they are now forever together and no force shall ever break them apart. Wherever you two might be. Know that I. Li'naris ,will always hold you dear to my essence, if you can hear me now, if you can understand on what i am saying to you. I wish you all the happiness the stars can provide. Perhaps we will meet each other one day, in a galaxy far, far away...

The worst part of it all is... She trusted me...

26.11.2013. - Day 11

The day has been silent, and so have been my thoughts on everything that is and was going on. E'gar is still working as usual. Though i receive little information from him. He has confirmed that the level 4 convergence is on plan and will be done soon. I will not be there to attend the ritual nor will i be the one that makes the sacrifice. If someone is willing to sacrifice themselves then so be it. E'gar and E'rissa will be the sacrifices as i recall. Not sure if that is 100% true, but what is true these days. Amani have gone silent. So have the Kalesti, the plans that are being done are now done in face to face instead of through Elion. So once again i do not know what is going on. I have to say, i am pretty disappointed in my kin. I remember the last time when survival was the only thing that kept us here. We were all together, hoping to get past this. But now, everyone one of us has a hidden agenda,unlike before where i was the only one having an agenda. It saddens me to see how my kin are so eager to leave, without knowing on what is truly going on.

Might aswell go dark with them. I have nothing to do on this planet anymore in any way.

27.11.2013. - Day 12

The Convergence is going to be initiated in only a couple of hours from now. I do not feel anything at this moment. Whatever happens it looks like its a good thing. I have little to no thoughts about it as i myself once again have no idea on what is going on. Klara asked me if i would sacrifice myself for some kind of a control? She is vague about it and i do not understand on what she is asking me. So i just said that i am on a "maybe". Just to keep her thinking and letting the time pass.

Minutes go by in a flash. Hours just like that and days go by without even noticing them. I myself would stay here,telling stories to my host, about what is and what isn't. I think i will not leave any memories of me when i leave. He will be an empty shell of a being just like the rest of them. Or will i? Its a decision i will make once i leave this wretched place. As much as i see diversity here. Human nature is still a part of nature itself. They are interesting and they deserve to be among us with the stars that we reside. But in time, they must prove to themselves that they can do it. Not to us. They have a long trip, hopefully i may live long enough to see the era of humans come close to us. We are not so different. We are very much like them. Only our ego blinds us. Thinking that we are Gods and that they are only mortals. Its easy for an Amani or Kalesti to see it like this when they watch this planet from far beyond, on their comfy planet full of mana. I dare anyone to go here on a survival trip, without mana this place is a death trap for all of us. I am not sure if there will be a new expedition to planet Earth. But i will suggest to the council a simple thing: "Leave them alone". And i hope that they will hear me out for once. So much for their hero.. This planet has only seen more hatred,lies and mistrusts since we got here. Nothing has changed, everything is the same. No stories to tell...

After the convergence, things will change. I am wondering on how will all this end up. My curiosity is still low about this. Since i do not like anything that requires sacrifice. But then again... The last time i was here... Things were different back then....

28.11.2013. - Day 13

I was wrong about the time of the Convergence, it is going to be in 12 hours. The hunters have left the planet. I will inform the council about them and tell them that they are still a threat that could be a possibility later on. We should never let our guard down. As for the hunters, they are of little threat now. Only 4 of them or so are left here at our position. They do not seem to have the manpower to cause us harm in any way now. All is well, surprisingly, everything is well.

So much has been done and said. My past will remain there and i hope nobody tries to bring it up again. As much as i wanted to bring l'sal back, i know that me and him have little to talk about. A'linor and i are still at some neutral position. We do not talk and we did not settle our differences whatsoever. It is a shame, i tried to reach out to him, but he seemed to be busy with his own thoughts. I wish him well, he is a great architect and will remain so.

Me and E'rissa met a while ago, when we were hunting the Draak. We did not talk much, we let our hosts talk to each other. We really had nothing to say. She will be a part of the sacrifice for the convergence. I see no better way for a brother and sister to be eternal, they care so much for each other. Only way they could end up if you think about it.

E'gar has done a great deal. From another standpoint, he is a warrior. A natural leader. He did his job and wherever he goes i am sure he will feel good for the accomplishment that he did.

Ei'essa, La'sara, l'tressa and A'rella I only talked more with Ei'essa, but i barely got to know her. As for the rest i never had the proper opportunity to talk with them. I am sure they had an interesting past and stories to tell. Perhaps i may see them later again. I would like to know them more. Such a shame, we barely had time to know each other.

O'tharis will stay in my memory, whatever he was. He did lie, he did deceive and he did make his own downfall. Yet all the time that we were speaking.. He actually made me feel like he trusted me. I was lying to myself that there was one who believed me in a way, regardless of my past... Klara and i had an understanding with each other. She is a good fighter and made me think twice of humans and what they are capable of doing. I hope everything goes well for her and the host Marko, he has suffered much and needs someone like her by his side.

As far as the Kalesti goes. I did not talk to any of them. A little bit with Bal Val'essa but only for information. I now know less of them than i knew before. But i do know is that they want the peace as much as we do. And we finally have it. We killed each other, thousands of us died every single day. Territory by territory, planet by planet. We would destroy each other just to prove who is wrong and who is right. Hard to imagine that after thousands of years of fight and struggle, we are finally one again. One race, one power. One thing that makes us greater than ever before. Not that i am political in any way. I just like less killing, more talking and sharing knowledge.

As for the Melki. Ke'thanis was very helpful as much as he could said without revealing important secrets. He is a good man. I hope to meet him again in the stars. Who knows where our paths may end up. A'lana and l'yani. however... Best of luck to them, as i said before. I hope to meet them too one day. Just to talk, nothing more. Nothing less.

Tijana, the prophet has helped me so much. I have said my farewell and promised that i will tell the council to keep the planet as a secret. No mana here, no mana spots no enemies or threats. Just to leave this planet alone as much as they can. I will be making sure that the next time we meet. The humans will make the first contact in the universe. I may even live to see them do it one day.

And what about Chaos? Where is he? Or it... You gone soft on me my old friend.
But i do not worry..
We will meet again..

Have i missed anyone? I think that would be all as far as i am here.

What about me then? This is my final journal here. I have said my goodbyes with the host. He has been once again a great symbiont, we worked better then ever before and he is sad and happy that i am leaving. Mixed feelings for both... I will leave him with something before i go. A little secret just to be sure. Not a bad secret, but he will do one last thing for me. Just one more thing...

I will wander the stars.Exploring and searching alone, though i will never be alone. I will always have the universe with me.The possibilities for me are endless and i can only start by looking into the future and leaving the past behind me. I don't want anyone to remember me. I will be far, far away from Amani territory and will mold planets to my will. Leaving monoliths and signs of greatness. Making other species look deep into my signs and make them urge to be greater, follow the stars and see what is beyond the vast ocean of space and time.

All is said and done.

We are finally at peace, we are one.

To the great stars i finally go.

Where no Amani has gone before.

I am Amani and all of you will stay in my memory...

29.11.2013. - dan 14

30.11.2013. - dan 15

1.12.2013. - dan 16