

Background of issue

- If a group divides into four corners, no one wants to be in a corner by themselves. People don't want to be by themselves or be wrong because it seems like a group of people who are together are usually right. People outside a majority or group don't want to be ridiculed for having a different opinion. According to "Herd Behavior" and "The Party," the way groups of people can make people question themselves.

Quote Intro

Period 6 1 thesis two text

1. thesis - According to "Herd Behavior" and "The Party," the way groups of people can make people question themselves.

2 The short story "The Party" shows the way groups of people act can make people question themselves.

3. In the Party", a girl isn't invited to a party that all her friends are going to. Everyone at school is talking about the party and getting popularity from going to the party. Not being invited makes the narrator doubt herself and starts wondering.

4. evidence from the party

"Why hadn't she invited me? My feet were too big? No. My face was broken out? Who wants someone with acne at her party? Why did she invite every person in my group expect me"(Munoz Ryan 2)

5 The narrator wonders if it is because of her big feet or once that she not invited to the party? She notices that her friend group is invited except for her.

5 Because every person in the narrator friend group is invited, she starts to doubt herself, even worrying about her basic appearance. The group all doing one thing the narrator isn't doing makes her doubt herself.

4.evidence from herd behavior

2.The article "Herd Behavior"shows the way groups of people act can make people question themselves.

3.In the herd behavior it explains how often people changes

their behavior when they are in a critical situation

"Human herd behavior can be observed at large- scale demonstrations, riots, strikes, religious, sports, and outbreaks of mob violence, when herd behavior sets in, an individual person judgment and opinion forming process shut down as he or she automatically follows the group's movement and behavior"(common Lit 1).

5. In the herd behavior the writer wrote how often people change their behavior when being in big groups.

5. Because they would be doubting themselves like "I'm going to care what they think", or they are going to judge me for not following them".

Conclusion

To end it up, people should think about their behavior with all the people they see.
