

NATSU DRAGNEEL

Name:

Natsu Dragneel

World/Verse:

Fairy Tail

Personality:

Natsu is carefree and reckless in nature, and, despite his consistent brawls with the other members of Fairy Tail, he is a fiercely loyal and protective friend. He is willing to go down fighting for his friends, regardless of how futile it might seem. Natsu has a straightforward mind, and often tackles issues with a "hands on" approach. His solution to problems often involve violence. Even when disrespected or faced with obvious hostility, Natsu rarely ever reciprocates the feelings, and often forgoes grudge-holding.

"If you're a guild, take care of your friends. That is all I have to say."

Biography:

The world feels strange. There's not much magic flowing through the air like it normally would be, but that didn't mean that magic wasn't used. No, he could still use his magic but he couldn't remember anything beyond how important his scarf was to him, which was given to him by his dad, and the family he had. The family was etched into the side of his arm. Could he remember any faces? No...did he know any of these people? Nah, he wouldn't forget his comrades. He would always remember his friends. They just weren't here right now and he'd make sure he'd get back to them. He'd find them one way or another!
