

Dr. Gerilyn Davis is an energetic HR executive who has focused on developing partnerships to create significant impact through engagement, team building and events for over two decades.

With over 16 years of experience which include experience with two of the top 150 Fortune 500 companies and seven years of independent consulting experience, she has concentrated on key essential business functions catered to inclusion. These four key business functions are as follows: strategic planning, operations, leadership development, and performance management.

As an influential talent advisor to C-suite execs, she believes in maximizing organizational talent with strong interpersonal communication skills and a love for developing people.

She is an ambitious, solution-focused leader who believes in inspiring change and is ecstatic about Inclusion on the Slopes.