Hi [Manager Name],

There's a professional development program called the Power Up Program, which is an 8 week course designed to help tech professionals like me build confidence and speaking skills.

It's $575 total and includes live classes, a community of practice, and one on one support in a small group format. I feel like this would be great for my growth and impact how I show up on the team. Confidence and communication benefits the whole team through meetings, presenting, feedback, and collaboration. Investing in soft skills like these leads to better outcomes at work.

I'm especially excited about [benefit] because it will help me [specific opportunity/goal].

Would [Company Name] be open to supporting my professional development by covering the cost? Happy to chat if helpful. There are only 6 spots and it starts June 19, so I'd love to lock in a seat soon.

Thanks for considering!
