Symbiosis.

All it took was a Laffy Taffy-sized piece of Karu for Geneture to begin their Project Symbiosis. Their research would have begun to broaden and stretch as the city began to get more and more visitors with symbiotes, along the same time, helping Gorvo in his research to create the “perfect genetic lifeform”.

The symbiotes, though they act more like parasites, are made by Karu’s DNA piece and experimental genetic modifying along with extreme gene splicing and cellular manipulation and enhancing. The process seems to be a long and strenuous until the “perfect” symbiote is made. Imperfect bondings result in the parasites hallowing out their “bonded victim” and using the bodies as puppet suits, only a few individuals seem to survive this process, more so if they have healthy bodies and strong mental states, but if now, then it isn’t no hope for them.

Para-Slashers.

Slashers are quiet and nimble hunters, they seem to enjoy hunting their prey and slashing at their vital areas for either death or immobilizing them. (necks, knees, or the spine)

Para-Gutters.

Spiky, thorny and they got strange feet. Gutters are creepy due to the legit MOUTH in their gut that seems to try and chomp down on their enemies during a fight.

Para-Slicers.

Vicious and screechy, the Slicers will try to slice you into ribbons and then eat what’s left. It is best to not get surrounded by them.

Para-Rippers.

They might look beautiful with their “pinkness” and move with a type of grace, but these parasites will seek to rip you apart to feed their hunger.

Para-Ravagers.

Flesh and bone, organic or non-organic, it doesn’t matter to them. The ravagers will shred and rip apart anything that gets in their way.

Para-Cutters.

These parasites seem to be able to actually -create- weaponry from their bodies, the beings seem to be a tad smarter and tougher than the others.

Para-Stealers.

These beings seem to be the rare “stable” Nictus and Parasitic bonding process, they attempt to not only eat the flesh of their victims but their life forces, too.

Para-Smashers.

These parasites are much bulkier and heavier than the others, they have a very exo-shell like armor. It’s strange but effective, just try to not get impaled by those metallic spikes.

Para-Crushers.

These brutes are large and seem to have some type of techy war-hammer that’s bonded to their parasitic goop. The enhanced tech parts are also dangerous, don’t get grabbed.

Lacerate.

[Cured-Imprisoned]

Was a murderer, before Geneture took him off the streets and used him for a test subject.

Incise.

[Cured-Imprisoned.]

A serial killer who was known by “The Row Chopper”, he has since been cured and imprisoned.

Blotstar.

[Incurable-Imprisoned by Vanguard.]

A fusion of Human, Nictus, and Parasite. The fusion mentally shattered the mind of the bonded and seems to have made them see visions of… a world beyond.

Ferity.

[Cured.]

A civilian of Paragon City who got forcefully fused to a parasite, turning them into a huge rampaging brute.

Fury.

[Cured.]

A civilian who was forcefully turned during the parasitic attack on various neighborhoods a while back. It was REALLY mad.

Thorn.

[Cured.]

A homeless civilian who was forcefully turned into a parasite, he escaped from one of the compromised Geneture-Sites.

Toxicant.

[Cured.]

Runaway from a local shelter who was forcefully experimented on. They could manipulate toxic gases from their body. Deadly. And stinky.

Anguish.

[Cured.]

An experiment that broke out and went to attack the city with the other parasites, she had multiple tentacles and could manipulate the ground to whip her enemies. Whip it good.

Wrath.

[Cured.]

All she felt was anger, she must’ve gone through weeks or even months of treatments before her mind finally snapped. All she wanted was blood.

Dustcomet.

[Incurable-Imprisoned by Vanguard.]

Another fusion of Nictus, Parasite, and Human. This one was able to manipulate the Nictus crystals embedded in its body to strengthen and grow its body.

Misery.

[Cured.]

A civilian who got bonded to an escaped parasite, though this bonded seemed to enjoy the strength boost and power he was given.

Officer Terrence and Detective Alisha [Cured.]

Two law enforcement who were infected and turned during the parasite's attack on the city, showing just how quick and effective the bonding process can be as the two were instantly turned into enemies.

Thomas C Barker

[Cured.]

An apartment landlord who got infected and decided that he wanted his “Rent!” But he didn’t say please.

Mania.

[Cured.]

One of the first fully bonded and powerful parasites the group fought, all you could feel when combating it was its anger, fear, and sorrow.

Bobby Bobthorn and Hysteria.

[Incurable-Imprisoned in with Vanguard.]

Once one of the main reporters and even had his own spotlight on the channel, Bobby was a man with a big fanbase and an even bigger month, seemingly in the back pocket of Geneture, too. It wasn’t long before the monster on the inside came out on the outside.

Bobby controlled PNN Reporters.

[Cured.]

Just your regular 9-5 or later employees of your local news station.

Solitary.

[Cured.]

During your fight with her, just seemed slightly afraid and like she was fighting back. But the parasite was sadly stronger.

Insecure.

[Cured.]

She felt her mind slowly going numb and her sanity slowly breaking away, even though she tried to fight it, the hunger was too great.

Unchained.

[Cured-Reimprisoned in the Zig.]

A thief and con-man who was imprisoned in the Zig, till Geneture paid a few guards to look the other way during a prison escort and took a few of the prisoners as test subjects… they didn’t exactly have a choice.
