

Target Market: Beginners in Freelance Copywriting

(Note to client: This is a fictional story. Stories strongly help persuade people into making decisions.)

Subject Line: I threw my computer across the room in a fit of RAGE!

I just couldn't take this level of anger and enragement anymore.

All those stupid clients I WORKED SO HARD to outreach in the past year had rejected me.

I desperately wanted to go back to my 9-5.

However, my instincts told me otherwise.

I instantly recalled the reasons for quitting my job: low income, exhausting long hours, and putting my retirement savings at risk.

Plus, what would people say about me if I suddenly became a coward and went back?

My self-respect would tarnish; nobody would trust me, and nobody would even want to be NEAR me.

I knew my entire life would collapse due to the overwhelming feeling of regret.

I had a burning ambition to attain financial freedom via copywriting.

However, I knew I couldn't achieve success alone. I needed guidance.

Then I encountered this random guy named John Carlton online, who claimed to have 30 years of experience and "all the secrets" to attain financial freedom via writing.

I was skeptical, but knowing I had nothing to lose, I decided to give him a shot

Fast forward to today, I now own an 8-figure business with RECORD clients.....all thanks to John and his valuable experience

If you are also an aspiring copywriter who possesses the same FIRE I had to attain record amounts of clients,

Then click here and experience the magical transformation of your life, from having no clients to attracting millions of high-paying clients.