

38 Writing an article

Decide on your point of view and complete your research

1. Work with your partner from the two modules. Use the information and web links that you have gathered in Activities 23 and 36.
2. Now you must decide whether you think that innovation will be a good or a bad thing for society. You don't have to agree with your partner.

If you think that the consequences will be positive, and that the innovation will mainly bring advantages and benefits, your title will be 'We need X'.

If you think that the consequences will be negative, and that the innovation will mainly bring disadvantages and cause problems, your title will be 'Beware of X'3.

3. Find the extra information that you will still need to complete your article.

Read and comment

1. Read the articles written by your classmates on the blog.
2. Write short comments on the articles that interest you the most. Write comments on a minimum of three articles, and a maximum of six. You can agree or disagree with the opinions of the authors, but your comments must contain 'strong' arguments.

Your comment must not be anonymous. Either write your first name or create an identity which contains your name, for example @alaitzsupergirl.
