

Subject Line: Only one thing is holding back the spread of your spiritual lifestyle.

Hello,

I was searching for yoga studios in DC when I came across your place, and I want to say that your diverse range of yoga classes, and services, all centered around fostering well-being through meditation, philosophy, and mantra, really impressed me.

It quickly became clear to me why your studio appeared first in my search results. I didn't find out exactly why, but you offer a different vibe.

Congrats!

However, there is still an open door for improvement. We shouldn't neglect the online dimensions, which are more important than we think these days.

Even if you provide real value and significant benefits for people, it's quite hard for them to profit if they aren't intrigued and don't feel a personal connection.

A simple shift of the focus on your people and simplifying their experience while going through your content could make a significant difference.

So, starting with some Instagram posts, tailored in three crucial areas, would be the best thing to do, even today. But, first of all, a discovery study is needed to start right and scale to richer horizons in the future.

So, if you're ready and open to it, I could give you a helping hand.

Don't hesitate to let me know with a simple reply, and we can discuss all that it takes to attain the best result.

Here are things that I noticed is the most worst part about your outreach:

1. TOOOOO much waffling
2. a lot of "I" using
3. salsey SL
