Chinese Massacre of 1871 – Historical Images

The Asian American Education Project

Life in the Chinese Community

Chinese Dragon Procession
Credit: Chinese American Museum, Courtesy of Florence Ung Francis

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Chinese New Year Parade Dragon
Credit: Chinese American Museum, Courtesy of Florence Ung Francis

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Dragon parade on Marchessault Street in the original Chinatown, 1885
Credit: El Pueblo Historical Monument

Joss House in Chinatown
Credit: Chinese American Museum, Courtesy of the Southwest Museum of Los Angeles

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Street filled with Chinese merchants, circa 1880
Credit: El Pueblo Historical Monument

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Two men in Chinatown
Credit: Chinese American Museum, Courtesy of El Pueblo Historical Monument

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Men in Chinatown
Credit: Chinese American Museum, Courtesy of Florence Ung Francis

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Chinatown Buildings & Streets

Coronel Adobe, on corner of Calle de los Negros, circa 1875
Credit: El Pueblo Historical Monument

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Original L.A. Chinatown, 1889
Credit: El Pueblo Historical Monument

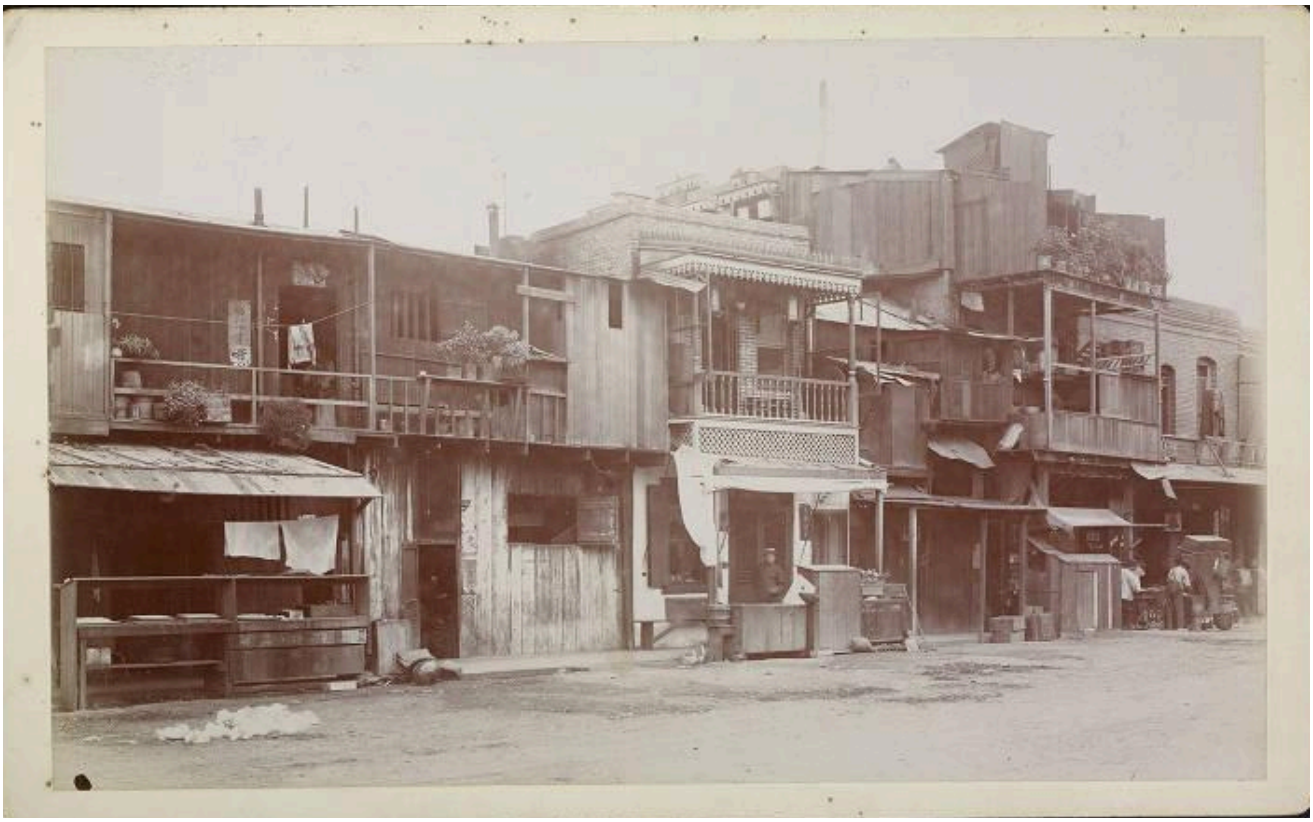

L.A. Chinatown, circa 1880: Calle de los Negros on the right.
The Coronel Adobe, white building, on the left. This is the site where the Chinese Massacre of 1871 began.
Credit: University of Southern California Libraries & California Historical Society, digitally reproduced by USC Digital Library

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

A view from Commercial Street and Spring Street, looking north to the Plaza, 1869.
The lumber yard on the right is where the Chinese Massacre of 1871 took place.
Credit: El Pueblo Historical Monument

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Street View of Old Chinatown, 1888
Credit: Huntington Digital Library

Chinatown and Orange Grove, Los Angles in 1875
Credit: Huntington Digital Library

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

150th Anniversary of the Chinese Massacre of 1871 (2021)

Candlelight Vigil at Chinese American Museum, 2021
Credit: Chinese American Museum

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Commemoration Wreath outside the Chinese American Museum with museum members
Credit: Chinese American Museum

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Commemoration Wreath with Chinese American Museum members laying flowers down on the 1871 Massacre plaque, outside the Chinese American Museum
Credit: Chinese American Museum

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.

Commemoration Wreath at Chinese American Museum for the 150th Anniversary of the Chinese Massacre of 1871
Credit: Chinese American Museum

 © The Asian American Education Project. All rights reserved.