

Dusk:

Gender:

Male

Name:

Rex.

Age:

14

Gear/Loadout:

Dons a black and red hoodie, with gray pants and red shoes, wearing a red/light gray/black bandana.

Equips himself with a belt with vials on it. The vials contain matches, rubbing alcohol, and bleach. He uses these either to make chloroform or to set things on fire. However, he can't set loads of stuff on fire with just a little rubbing alcohol, so it's mainly used as a weapon, or to start fires.

Plays electric guitar,

He is able to heal extremely quickly, Run at olympic speeds, and is around as strong as a gym teacher. Not quite wolverine levels of healing, so much as: "Oh no I got shot? Oh hey look it didn't hit my vitals. Eh whatever."

Fighting style: Sleeps either none or a ton.

Longer range attacks while running, followed by heavy melee when in distance is closed. Hit and run. If he's desperate, He basically starts doing everything all at once, running circles around the enemy. May land on someone, batman style, if he's being semi-stealthy. Sometimes stops enemy attacks by grabbing them with one hand and countering with the other.

Tactics:

Stealthy as frick. Stays in shadows and watches, has amazing vision.

Psychological profile:

Has revenge issues.

Ptsd from parent's murder. A great friend of Sketchy's. High apathy for injury, unless it is extremely dangerous, or near-permanent. Says it's because he knows it'll heal quickly, but.. He sleeps either none or a ton. Extremely focused on his goals.

Background:

Lived in a 2 story house on the very edge of town with his mom and dad, with an open expanse of wild land behind it. He would play in the woods as a kid, and joined boy scouts and such, so he knows a good few wilderness survival techniques, along with whittling. He'd play hide and seek a ton, basically a self taught ninja.
