

Event starts with a fleet of ships attacking Both Korriban and Tython led by two Lieutenants of Mandalore the Harbinger

After a long and hard fight, they defend their planet and before the lieutenants are captured they say “ you will never beat The Harbinger” then take a cyanide pill and die

Those who are smart enough will search the archives for any mention of this name which when found would inform them that Mandalore the harbinger was an enemy of Revan and that he hates both Jedi and sith orders because of him

They find the last hidden stash of Revan is located on endor. The harbinger who had his men bug the archives will also gain this information and send his remaining fleet there after a battle across the surface and in the tunnels the players will come across the last stash of Revan which would hold a holo recording of the Great force wielder.

The recording would state I am Revan if you are seeing this my enemy of old has returned there is but one way to match his power base and his right as Mandalore and that is to challenge him to a fair fight with one who wields the dark saber. The holorecording then points up to the top of the rocks above him and says the dark saber is found above lodged into the rocks “but good luck removing it I placed it there myself” (roll 90 or above to remove it)

Once the dark saber is obtained the Mandalore will accept either a 1v1, 3v3, or 5v5 (given there is enough event characters)

If the character who fights him is not wielding the dark saber he either doesn't accept or “ runs away” and doesn't die to gather his forces

(SPoken with current Gamemasters running some Mando based events the darksaber is able to be worked around)