Call Center Work Standards

I understand that my job, as a Call Center ambassador, is an integral function of LMG's business and interests as I am usually the first point of contact that a client or potential client has with LMG.

Call Center ambassadors shall ensure that their service to customers and phone call etiquette meets all guidelines and requirements contained in this Call Center Policy at all times.

Call manipulation, call avoidance, mistreatment of customers, failure to maintain confidentiality and fraudulent activity will not be tolerated at LMG. We have a responsibility to conduct ourselves in a professional manner at all times, hold ourselves to the highest industry standards, and provide exceptional customer service each and every time we are on the phone. The following examples constitute severe performance infractions that put our programs and our customers at risk. These examples do not establish an all-inclusive list. They are examples provided to illustrate the types of behavior committed by a Call Center ambassador that LMG considers to be severe performance infractions.

If a Call Center ambassador commits an infraction, they shall be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including immediate termination:

Call manipulation includes but is not limited to:

- Placing the customer on hold without a valid explanation
- Placing the customer on hold for an unjustified and inappropriate amount of time
- Cold or blind transfers/inappropriate transfer to other departments

- Excessive status changes made in order to avoid inbound calls

Call avoidance includes but is not limited to:

- Excessive bounced/unanswered calls
- Deliberate manual release of active calls
- Deliberate failure to handle inbound calls or return outbound calls
- Excessive status changes made in order to avoid inbound calls
- Failure to respond timely to voice mails

Call avoidance is documented in agent activity reports, contact reports, transfer reports, trouble ticket reports, and is monitored by Call Center Managers through the use of in call records.

Call avoidance shows a substantial and intentional disregard of a Call Center ambassador's job duties and obligations to LMG and its clients, and shall be considered willful work misconduct and a gross neglect of duties. Due to the nature of this misconduct, if a Call Center ambassador is found to be exercising Call Avoidance, this determination shall be subject to immediate termination.

Mistreatment of customers includes but is not limited to:

- The failure to greet each customer at the beginning of the call
- The failure to acknowledge during the greeting the proper company the client is calling
- Behavior that is rude, abrasive, and/or harassing to the customer
- The use of unprofessional language, profanity, and raising your voice or yelling
- Being unresponsive to the customer and/or ignoring direct questions from the customer
- Talking over the customer
- Background noise from children, pets, or electronics (when working from home, as applicable)
- The mishandling of customer account, which includes but is not limited to making changes to the account without customer authorization
- Enrolling clients in states where enrollments for that brand are not permitted
- Placing customers on hold with no notice
- Transferring customers anywhere with no notice

Confidentiality

Ambassadors must preserve all confidential information related to the business, products, customers, ambassadors, policies and procedures, processes, systems, training materials, or any other confidential or secure information. Confidential information includes but is not limited to all internal documents of LMG and all information of LMG in any form obtained during the course of employment; any and all client files and information in any form, hard-copy, electronic, or otherwise; internal memoranda or other correspondence; financial information; strategies, and; strategic information.
