I'd like to open this doc up with the fact that I was actually a friend of Vin's and I am very disappointed in her and the person she has been and still is.I was not aware of this side of her when I met her but I am disgusted by the person she is and how she has tried to excuse her behavior as a one off event caused by a trauma response to her family member dying.

Trauma, death, depression, anxiety, NOTHING is an excuse to be a shotacon or a lolicon.

I'm especially disappointed in the fact that she has allowed her other friends to defend her all the while she has KNOWN the content she has been posting, putting those people at risk for defending a shotacon.

In this document you will find evidence spanning from the past year to as recent as 3 months ago (July 31st 2026) of Vin engaging in shotacon content and being a shotacon herself in addition to many other disgusting things.

This includes
-shotacon
-incest (NOT talking about vodka x gimlet.)
-proshipping

Extra notes: NONE OF THIS DOCUMENT FOCUSES ON GIMLET X VODKA. INCLUDING THE PROSHIP AND INCEST SECTIONS.

GIMVOD IS NOT PROSHIP BUT VIN IS A PROSHIPPER.

Here is Vin admitting to most of what you are about to see just to start off strong:

Hi, I like big age gaps and stories involving grooming, abuse, incest and other heinous things. I like them as horror and I like them as fetishized porn. Have fun ❤️

Shotacon:

I will preface as well, much of the content in this section is of a ship from soul eater between two minors (both 13-15) named black star and death the kid. Some of it drawn by Vin herself. Content warning ahead.

Publisher Description

Meet Julian. He invites you into his world of secrets and lies; of confessions and sins, and forces you to analyse the meanings of right and wrong, good and bad. One day he meets Matt — a schoolboy, as beautiful as he is cunning. The moment their eyes lock, Julian is trapped in an endless spiral downwards, unable to step away from the darkness Matt brings with his company. What Julian fears the most, is that he doesn't want to. What lengths will he go, how far will he stray from what he knows is right? You join Julian on a road to self discovery, but be prepared — the person he discovers may not be who you originally thought he was.

Beginning on an innocent enough day out in London, Julian is at a café, having breakfast with a boy he knows he should not be. He tells himself it's just an hour, just food. Just this and just that. That same day, an hour turns into ten, and by the time he's dropped the boy off home, Julian realises that he's incapable of saying no to his charming and convincing ways.

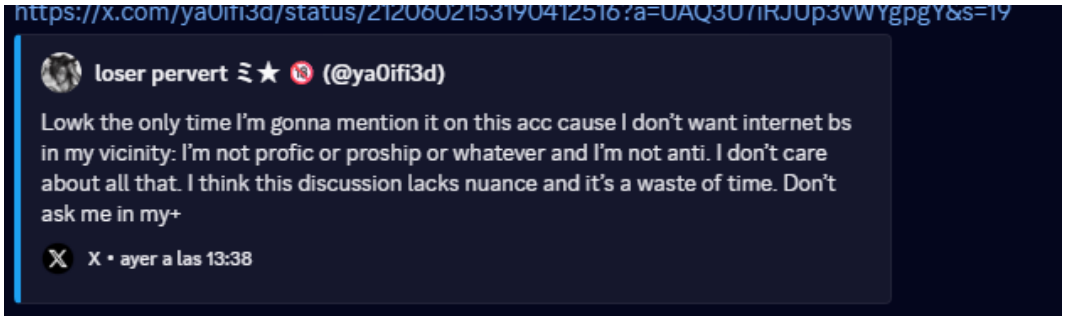

The closer they get, the more Matt lets slip his veil of innocence; and the more Julian falls for him, the harder it is for him to resist his devious ways. Uncovering secret after lie after manipulation, Julian knows he needs to stop, to end this, to walk away in the opposite direction that he's pulled towards while he has the chance. Thing is – Julian is nothing, if not indecisive; and Matt nothing, if not aggressive in his pursuit. By the time he can make up his mind, it's been made for him, when something goes horribly wrong and it exposes Julian right where it will hurt him the most. They've been caught, and this time it's serious. This time the person who catches them isn't going to just storm out and then come around a couple days later. This time Julian has to make a decision that will bind him to the boy forever, or face suicide in every definition of the word apart from death. This sets into motion his undoing at the hands of Matt, as he finally faces the demons he's kept buried while discovering even darker ones that are lurking within. He joins Matthew on the path to lust and destruction, and is forced to accept that perhaps they aren't so different after all.

Obsession begets depravity. Julian realises who he is, who they are – and it isn't pretty. What's more terrifying to him is that he likes what the sum of them together makes. That it's the highest he's ever climbed, the hardest he's ever fallen, and that there's nothing he wouldn't do if Matthew asked it of him — be it good or bad, evil or innocent, love or hate, blood or tears, and life or death.

1. Pederasty (Fiction / Dark Thriller) by J.C. Morgan

- Plot: This novel follows Julian, a 34-year-old man, and Matt, a 15-to-16-year-old schoolboy.
- Themes: It is a psychological and dark thriller exploring a manipulative and illicit relationship that begins when they meet on a college campus library and at a London café. The story delves into themes of secrets, transgression, manipulation, and the consequences of a forbidden affair. Goodreads +1

Here’s her lying about being proship as well:

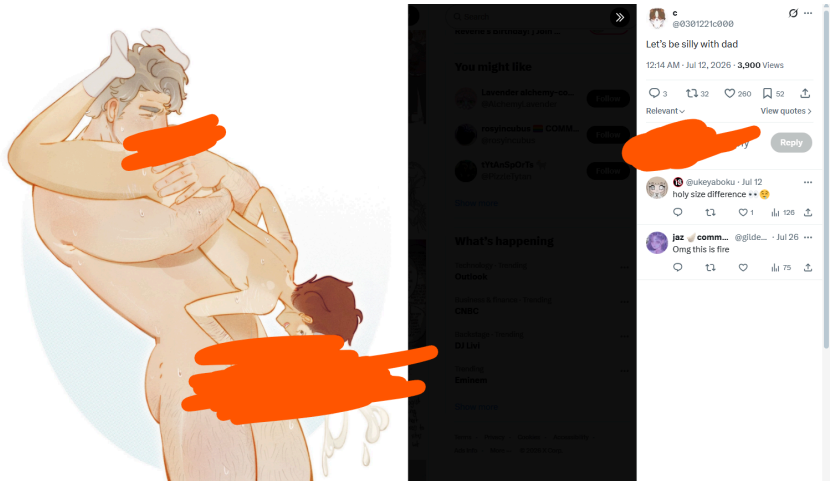

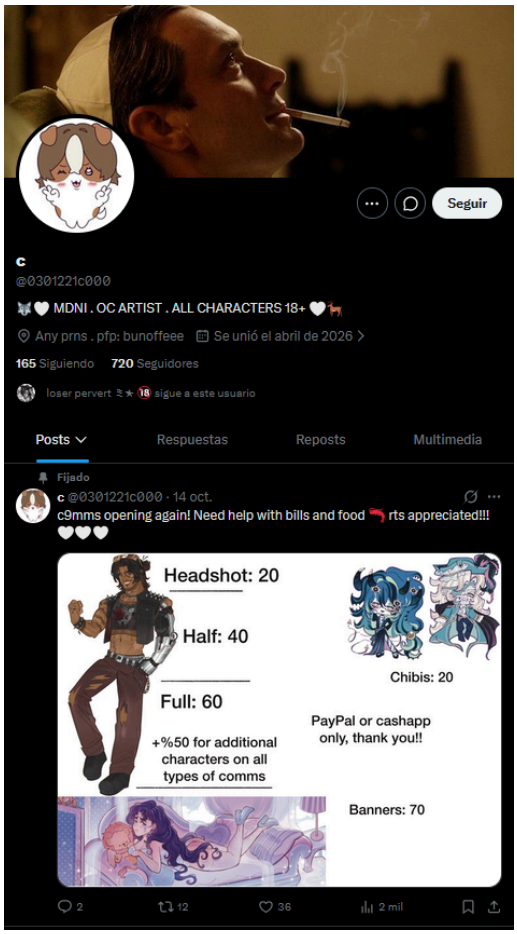

And if you have seen all of this and still believe her family member passing away was a valid excuse for her behavior, here is her showing how much she cared for said family member:

And just a cherry on top, this is suspected to be a new account of swamplover who vin follows which posted this:

TLDR:

Vin displayed this behavior for months on end even before her grandmother died (around early march as some of these are dated from january). She used that as an excuse for her disgusting behavior when she was engaging in this content the entire time.

Her trauma is not an excuse to be a shotacon or proshipper. She should seek therapy instead of engaging with and depicting acts with minors and as her ex-friend, I hope she does.
