

Questions to Ask Your New Care Provider

(Therapist, Peer Supporter, etc.)

Feel empowered to share this, print this, modify this list to suit your needs.

This list is nonexhaustive, but might be helpful as a framework when you are meeting with a new provider for the first time. Not all care providers will, by default, be a good fit for you. Unfortunately, some providers of care act in harmful ways, can cause trauma, or exacerbate existing distress.

You deserve to be informed about the person you are seeking support, care from. Here are some questions that may be helpful to ask when you are meeting with someone new for the first time.

This list was curated by Dandelion a Autigenderqueer, Mad, care provider, lived experience educator, a peer supporter and abolitionist social worker: @Dandelion.Hill. Additional questions were submitted by peers with lived experience navigating mental health resources who shared questions they also felt could be helpful. If you have any questions or would like to add to this list email: Dandelion@PeerSupportSpace.org

If you would like to explore care providers who engage in abolition-centered care you can check out this community database: tinyurl.com/AbolitionCareProviders
