In the UK, people often say 'sorry' when they don't do anything wrong. For example, if someone steps on your foot, you say sorry to them! British people also love tea. They usually drink it with milk and sugar. In the afternoon, some people have 'afternoon tea'. This is a small meal with sandwiches, cakes, and of course, tea. Another British tradition is the pub. People go to the pub after work, or at the weekend, to meet friends, watch football, or just relax. There are over 50,000 pubs in the UK - that's about one for every 1,000 people! The UK is famous for its music. Some of the most popular bands in the world are British, like The Beatles, The Rolling Stones, and One Direction. British people also love festivals. In the summer, there are lots of big music festivals, like Glastonbury, Reading, and Leeds. Every year, thousands of people go to these festivals to see their favourite bands. And finally, the weather. British people love talking about the weather because it changes a lot! It can be sunny one minute, and then suddenly start raining. So, if you visit the UK, make sure you bring your umbrella!
