

LOYALTY (AcousticBrony + MandoPony)

(As in chorus): [ Em C G D ] x 2 (soft), [ Em C G D ] x 2

Em                    C                    G                    D                    Em
You see me soaring through the sky, I see you below as you walk on by
                                 C                    G                    D                    Em
I could clear the sky in 10 second flat, how about that, how about that?
                                 C                    G                    D                    Em
I could be sitting here on a cloud watching the sun as it starts to go down
                                 C                    G                    D
The only thing missing is you by my side

C                    D                    Em
Give me a smidge of confidence,
                                 G                    C
Give me a speck of something that makes sense,
                                 D                    Em
Give me an idea of dependency,
                                 G                    C D Em    G    C D Em
Give me a dash of loyalty,                    loyalty...
Em                    C
I could save my lonely soul for you,
                                 G                    D
But the feeling in my heart can't follow through, [ repeat ]
Em                    C
You can give your broken heart to me,
                                 G
Cause you know that I'll stay with you,
                                 D                    C Em                    C Em
That's why they call me loyalty,                    loyalty...

Em                    C                    G
The sun shines bright, yet the rain pours on
                                 D                    Em
Rainbows here one minute and then their gone
                                 C                    G                    D                    Em
They remind me.... of me and you, what did you do?    What did I do?
                                 C                    G                    D                    Em
Determination in those eyes, where has it gone? has it said goodbye?
                                 C                    G                    D
A lot as happened but I'll stay by your side

[ PRE-CHORUS ], [ CHORUS (no ending) ]

->C                    Em                    C                    Em
Time stands still when you're with me,    how can I make you see?
                                 C                    Em
Your crazy antics make me want to scream
                                 C                    D                    Em->
Your name so loud till my throat starts to bleed (to bleed....)
