

Introducing...

10 things you should know about the assignment "10 things your should know about..."

1. You must research appropriate websites to find new information about your topic.
2. Your final draft should make use of graphics (charts, graphs, illustrations, maps, pictures, cartoons, labels, etc.)
3. Use text features to enhance meaning (bold, italics, font).
4. Use headings and subheadings.
5. Use color to enhance readability.
6. You must not plagiarize, or copy the information word for word, put the information into your own words.
7. You must have an introduction explaining why your audience would be interested in reading about the information you have found.
8. The information must be interesting. If you write that McDonalds serves French fries or that the Mexico City is part of Mexico, you are not giving your audience new information.
9. You must have a conclusion explaining how the information is relevant and important.
10. Use "10 things you didn't know about brownies" as a model for content, structure, and format.

You will put this into a Glogster and present it to the class!
Have Fun!!
