

SL: Your Social Media

To Whomever It May Concern,

While I was looking around at everything you have to offer, I noticed your social media, and I thought of how I can help you post more frequently, so you get more attention.

We live in an attention economy today, so you will definitely benefit from having frequent posts regarding what you have to offer your customers.

If you start posting constantly every single day, and make sure the writing is persuasive and arouses the curiosity of your readers, then you will then start to monetize that attention.

If you would like to talk more about this you can email me right here, whenever it's convenient for you.

Have a good rest of your day and God bless!

Sincerely,

Michael