

Hello Andres,

I came across your profile on Instagram and was impressed by your coaching abilities as you have bachelors' and masters' degree in exercise and nutrition science. However, I noticed a few areas on your website in the product and services section that could be improved to increase your conversion rates.

Your product descriptions could be more persuasive and focused on benefits. Additionally, you do not have a funnel system in place, which could increase sales.

Ever wonder how top fitness influencers like Tony Horton and Shaun T effortlessly connect with their audience on a deeper level. They employ a powerful technique called pulsepoint leveraging human emotions, pains and desires. It's a game changer when it comes to product writing. By tapping into people's pains and presenting them with the ultimate solution it creates an irresistible urge to own it.

I made a free gift project of one of your legion products which you can use to get more sales. Would you like to have it?

Regards