PREVIOUS HISTORY

June 25th, 2019

Alex formally received their Diploma from Dønski videregående skole. Following this achievement, Alex continued to work for a local business for 2 months before enlisting to join the Norwegian Armed Forces.

September 3rd, 2019

Alex would officially enlist in the Norwegian Armed Forces, entering at the rank of visekorporal before being given his deployment in the Haakonsværn Naval Base. While stationed at the naval base, Alex would perform above expectations in his duties in most categories, however he was under-performing in most combative training while stationed on site, normally preferring the more 'bureaucratic' tasks, such as supply or guarding the bases front-gate and approving all bodies entering.

When asked by a commanding officer, his squadmate had this to say regarding Alex:

"I've never seen a man so happy to be sitting in the same place for 8 hours a day, I mean everyone else got excited when they were told they'd get to go shooting at the range for the day, Alex on the other hand would ask if the front gate needed more personnel, or perhaps handle any paperwork for the supply area of base. The rest of us in the same squad as him started calling him 'Pacifist' although we don't believe he had any belief against hurting people, we just thought him physically incapable."

PERSONNEL FILE

Alex was frequently seen jotting notes down in his journal regarding the day to day affairs, and did show interest in joining operations out in the ocean. Noting his interest, he applied for a position in the Forsvarets Spesialkommando (FSK) on November 26th of that year.

December 20th, 2019

Upon passing the physical selections and SOF selections, Alex was set to begin basic training, during this basic training Alex was trained in a collection of different skills, such as reconnaissance, close-quarters combat, and advanced marksmanship, all of which improved his physical and combative abilities. While starting, and still ending, slightly below the standard, his efforts slowly allowed him to catch up to the other recruits. By the end of basic training Alex ranked in the middle of his group in combative skills tests, and top of his group in practical and intellectual skills, such as operation planning, and mock-squad leading situations. It was due to this that Alex was selected as an operator within the Forsvarets Spesialkommando, and was assigned to be acting in a supportive role. Due to this new position, he was trained in Drone Operations and Naval Search and Rescue operations before formally taking a position in the special forces unit.

April 1st, 2025

Alex formally signs up with the Foundation, being placed as a General Security Private within Site-66.
