

Animation Script and Voiceover: Respect

WALT make connections between spoken, written and visual language; and WALT use correct sentence punctuation.

Your task (Part 1)

Plan and write a voiceover for your animation about respect. How will you answer the questions in the orange boxes? Write your answers in full sentences in the white boxes underneath.

There are some sentence starters to help you. Delete any you do not want to use.
Click here to find our wordbank.

Making a plan: Think of how long your voiceover needs to be for your movie.
Beginning: Respect - Who? Where? What does it mean?
R E S P E C T ... We're all about respect at Pt England School. Let's show you how we show respect to each other.
What does your animation show?
At Pt England School we show respect by ... In class we show respect by ... I show my friends respect by ...
What happens next in your animation/story about respect?
We sorted out a problem by ... We showed respect by ...
Ending: What is your message about respect?
R E S P E C T means ... <ul style="list-style-type: none">• The Point England Way• Looking after our environment• Right place, right time, right attitude!• Being a class kid

Your task (part 2)

Copy and paste your writing here from the white boxes above. You will have one piece of text for blogging and to practise reading.

Your task (Part 3)

Finished your writing?

1.	Read your writing carefully. Does it make sense?
2.	Read your writing again to check your sentence punctuation: does every sentence begin with a capital letter and end with a full stop or a question mark or one exclamation mark?
3.	Ask a buddy to read your writing. Does it make sense to them?
4.	Read the writing that your buddy has written. Does it make sense? Do they need to fix up any punctuation?
5.	Share your script on your blog. Copy and paste the text of your script into a new blog post. Add a screenshot from your animation. Title: Choose your own title. Labels: 2018, Animation, Respect, Writing,
6.	Practise reading your script aloud. Ask your buddy to listen to you. Take turns to do this with your buddy. Are you ready to record?
7.	Record your voice over ready for adding to your animation.