

A day in the life of...

This week you are going to be writing about the day in the life of a creature from the rocky shore. You will need to plan your ideas before you begin writing. Fill in the table below before you begin writing:

|                                                                           |  |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
| What is your rocky shore creature?                                        |  |
| Where on the rocky shore does your creature live?                         |  |
| What does your rocky shore creature do when the tide is in?               |  |
| What does your rocky shore creature do when the tide is out?              |  |
| What does your rocky shore creature eat?                                  |  |
| What does your rocky shore creature need to look out for? (Who eats them) |  |

|                                                                                                    |  |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
| Introduction: Hook your reader4-5 sentences setting the scene                                  |  |
| Paragraph 1: One idea about the life of your rocky shore creature.4-5 sentences                |  |
| Paragraph 2: One idea about the life of your rocky shore creature.4-5 sentences                |  |
| Paragraph 3: One idea about the life of your rocky shore creature.4-5 sentences                |  |
| Conclusion: How does your story end?4-5 sentences -does your creature survive for another day? |  |

Start writing here: