November Ingathering

TODAY Sunday, November 2, after service

At this gathering, we'll ground ourselves for all that's coming up in November. We'll begin with a potluck. All are welcome to join, whether or not you're planning to stay for the rest of the afternoon. Last month we had a whiteboard where you could sign up for which group you wanted to join after the potluck and for helping out with services. Instead of that, there will be slips of paper to write your name on and put in a labelled receptacle for post-potluck activities and a paper form to fill out for helping with service. Here are more details about each post-potluck activity:

- Music with Jeff: This group's activities will include hymn selection, special music, choral music, offertory, and pre-recorded music that would fit the monthly theme and weekly services. They will also work on building the monthly collaborative Spotify playlist, so come with your recommendations handy!
- Altar Building with Sage: This group will be setting up the new altar in the sanctuary for the month of November. Whether you join this group or not, all are invited to bring materials for the altar. There will be a list of who brought what so it will be returned to you.
- Chalice Circle with Isabel: This group will have a more in-depth conversation about the theme for November, Nurturing Gratitude.
- Play with Emily: This group will have fun activities for the young in body and heart.

Field Trip to the Spencer

Saturday, November 8

UUFMers will be carpooling to Lawrence to attend the free screening of the "Return of the Sacred Red Rock" documentary. The 56-minute film tells the story of the repatriation of In'zhúje'wáxobe, a 28-ton red quartzite boulder sacred to the Kanza people of the Kaw Nation. A panel discussion and Q&A with project leaders will follow. After the event, we'll walk across the street to the Spencer Museum to view the exhibit about the project.
