Green Mage (GNM)

Buffing Caster

Weapon: Rackets, magical rackets attuned with wind magic to help carry and spread Emerald Seeds

Limit Break: Green Dominion

Inspiration: Green Mages from Tactics A2, Aerith from VII remakes, D&D Druids

TL;DR version

- Nature, Plant, and Wind-based buffing caster
- Ya like lacrosse? Ya like gardening?
- Collect seeds from your filler combos and use them to blow up your enemies
- Also earn special mana from your combo spells to fuel party buffs or damaging spells
- No res here but some mitigation and healing
- Filler combo spells have a cast time of 1.5 seconds, powerful spells have a cast time of 2.5 seconds.

Lore

Originating from the Viera tribes of Ivalice, these mages commune with “the Green”, the mystical consciousness found not only in the forest and jungles of Ivalice but anywhere flora flourishes. By fighting off enemies of the Green, Green Mages gain its favor, gaining access to Green Mana to fuel spells that strengthen the caster and their allies or hinder their foes.

They fight using wind-attuned rackets that carry the seeds they use on the gusts they generate.

Special Mechanics

Filler-Combos

Similar to Pictomancers, Green Mages have single button combo spells for their single-target and AoE burst damage fillers, Emerald Shot and Emerald Swirl. Progressing one, progresses the other, allowing the user to switch when needed.

Additionally, with each step of their combo, the user gains an Emerald Seed stack (max of 3) and Green Mana. Also, whenever the user casts Emerald Shot/Swirl III, they gain an Emerald Tempest stack (max of 3).

Emerald Seeds

Special seeds the user gain from their filler combo that are used on either Emerald Bloom, a powerful damaging spell, or Emerald Oil, a debuff that increases damage done on a selected target.

Green Mana and “...of the Green” spells

By damaging enemies, Green Mages earn the favor of the mysterious presence known as the Green. This favor comes in the form of Green Mana, which can be used to fuel “...of the Green” spells.

Starting out, a Green Mage can have up to 50 Green Mana then 100 and will start each instance with the max amount of Green Mana.

The Gauges

The Green Communion Gauge

- The Green Mana bar: A bar that shows the amount of Green Mana the user has (up to 100). Makes noise whenever the user reaches 50 or 100 Green Mana.
- The Seedbed gauge: A patch of soil that shows the number of Emerald Seed stacks the user has (max of 3). Makes a noise when the user has 3.
- Three gems, each representing Faith of the Green, Bravery of the Green, and Poison of the Green, the respective gem lighting up when its spell is activated.

  - (Potion ends)

For AoE, swap Tanglevine with Stranglethorn (2+ enemies) and Emerald Shot spells for Emerald Swirl spells (3+ enemies).

Changes

- Potential Opener added
- Faith, Bravery, and Poison of the Green now have an effect time of 24 seconds.
- Fleeting Familiar no longer has an effect time, instead having the Sprite attacking the target of the user's next 7 targeting, damaging spells, damaging them and all enemies within 8-yalms.
- Dell of the Dreamer no longer has its own effect time, working on the effect time of the "...of the Green" spell it was cast under.
- Verdant Blossom is now learned at 98 and heals party members within Shell's area of effect for a potency of 600 but no longer damages enemies inside.
- Mirage Spore only damages enemies when the barrier is fully absorbed.
- Stranglethorn has been separated from Tanglevine.

Version 1

Green Mage (GNM)

Buffing Caster

Weapon: Rackets, magical rackets attuned with wind magic to help carry and spread Emerald Seeds

Limit Break: Green Dominion

Inspiration: Green Mages from Tactics A2, Aerith from VII remakes, D&D Druids

TL;DR version

- Nature, Plant, and Wind based buffing caster
- Ya like lacrosse? Ya like gardening?
- Place seeds on enemies with your filler combo spells and then blow them up
- Also earn special mana from your combo spells to fuel party buffs or damaging spells
- No res here but has some mitigation
- Filler combo spells have a cast time of 1.5 seconds, powerful spells have a cast time of 2.5 seconds.

Lore

Originating from the Viera tribes of Ivalice, these mages commune with “the Green”, the mystical consciousness found not only in the forest and jungles of Ivalice but anywhere flora flourishes. By fighting off enemies of the Green, Green Mages gain its favor, gaining access to Green Mana to fuel spells that strengthen the caster and their allies or hinder their foes. They fight using wind-attuned, rackets that carry the seeds they use on the gusts they generate.

Filler-Combos

Similar to Pictomancers, Green Mages have single button combo spells for their single-target and AoE burst damage fillers, Emerald Shot and Emerald Swirl. Progressing one, progresses the other, allowing the user to switch when needed.

Additionally, each step of the combos places an Emerald Seed on their target(s) and grants the user Green Mana. Emerald Shot III and Emerald Swirl III will also grant the user a stack of Emerald Tempest (max of 3), which are used to cast the spell Emerald Tempest.

Emerald Seeds

Being placed on a target from Emerald Shot or Emerald Swirl, a target can have up to 3 seeds on them at a time.

These seeds are used up either by Emerald Bloom, doing massive damage to any enemy within range per Emerald Seeds used, or Emerald Oil, increasing damage done to the target based on how many seeds they had.

Green Mana and “...of the Green” spells

By damaging enemies, Green Mages earn the favor of the mysterious presence known as the Green. This favor comes in the form of Green Mana, which can be used to fuel “...of the Green” spells.

A Green Mage can hold up to 50 Green Mana.

The Gauges

The Green Communion Gauge

- A bar that will fill with vivid green light as you gain Green Mana. It will make a noise when you accumulate 30 Green Mana.
- Three gems, each representing Faith of the Green, Bravery of the Green, and Poison of the Green, respectfully. A gem will glow when its respectful spell is activated.
- A vine that grows in three parts as you gain Emerald Tempest stacks. At three it makes a noise and glows.
