

SL: The biggest secret to attracting women nobody talks about.

Hey [Firstname]

Question for you...

Do you struggle to talk to women because of not knowing what to say?

Well, that's not what's causing your approach anxiety at all

It's not your opener,

It's not your looks,

It's not even your style (although we can talk about that later).

It's whether you're proud on the man in front of you in the mirror

Because when you are proud

- You don't hesitate.
- You don't overthink every word like it's a court case.
- You don't feel like you need to "get it right."

You just... show up.

Women don't fall for tactics.

They fall for men who've already decided they're worth something.

It's about how you see yourself when no one is around

When you like the man you are

Everything changes

You stop seeking her approval.

Because you've already given yourself yours

You stop trying to impress her

Because you're no longer trying to earn your place.

And ironically, that's when people start leaning in.

If you want to build that kind of confidence, the kind that doesn't rely on lines or luck, I break it down step by step here:

[CTA]

Stop doubting yourself

Start learning how to be proud of yourself

Tristan.