

Intelligent. Sympathetic. Kind. Jeff was the nervous new boy in class and he was eager to make friends. His bright beautiful pupils were blue marbles which pierced through the morning sky. His long hair danced in time to the tune of the whispering wind. Faster than the speed of light, his stark smile beamed into the classroom, blinding everyone in sight. Jeff's teeth were icy crystals reflecting the warm sunlight. Shining in the morning dawn, his hair was golden blonde.

As loyal as a true friend, Jeff was as considerate as a kind teacher. Pleasant and patient, Jeff's heart is a warm, crackling fire. As calm and peaceful as a sloth, he was as truthful as an angel. Thoughtful and generous, he reached out a hand of friendship to Bradley. Filled with fear, Jeff was shivering with embarrassment as he stepped into the classroom for the first time...