Vance Stevens

Hello everyone, a quick explanation of what I am doing here. I have scheduled a Hangout on Air (HoA) here <https://plus.google.com/u/0/events/ctjksbdotdbnt1skdklj8kcqmu8>

I can't see how to do this with OBS (Open Broadcast Software) because the event I set in YouTube/Live did not require me to configure encoders (or maybe I didn't see where I could configure them)

However, XSplit encoder is set to my YouTube/Live account and knows I have an event scheduled, so I hope it will stream it.

The next challenge is to start the HoA. There is a Go Live Now button on my YouTube page for Learning2gether event #352 so I'm hoping when I click that, the HoA will start and when I activate XSplit it will stream it.

Vance Stevens

This is the theory. I have never actually done this before. However, I invited a few friends over to see if it might work (the people who show up here)

So what's plan B? If I cant get the HoA to stream through the event I scheduled as planned I should be able to start a HoA spontaneously and stream that. In that case I'll have to communicate its new watch page here.

Vance Stevens

Either way I should be able get folks here into a HoA starting half an hour from now, and stream it either through the event I set up here <https://plus.google.com/u/0/events/ctjksbdotdbnt1skdklj8kcqmu8> (perfect outcome) or through another watch page I create on the fly.

So, now with half an hour to go, it's time to start the HoA (but not stream it)
