SL: Why you will EVER have to work a job

There are two kinds of humans in your system.

The ones who consume and do not take action and the ones who live their lives determined. Who know they will achieve their dreams.

People who just do enough and work their jobs and live the rest of the days slaving away. And the ones who collect endless money and are independent of anyone.

Once you've started the action your life won't be the same, and you will discover the beauty of life.

You will be able to quit the job that's holding you back physically and mentally and steals your time.

You will no longer be the person who has a boss telling you what to do and when to do it.

The only thing you will ever quit will be your old job. You don't need ANYBODY who pays you like you would be their slave.

But only if you take action and dare to start.

Otherwise, you will have to work and be a consuming empty shell never following its path.

You decide which path you take.
