

Interview With A Winner

MMA Reporter: Ladies and gentlemen, I'm here with the indomitable Odette Yustman, who just snagged her very first win after a 15-fight losing streak! Odette, how do you feel?

Odette: Relieved.

MMA Reporter: Relieved? I bet! Jennifer Love Hewitt didn't land a single shot on you tonight. What was your secret?

Odette: Dodging.

MMA Reporter: Dodging—an excellent strategy. Were you inspired by a particular dance move or just trying to avoid another punch to the face?

Odette: Both.

MMA Reporter: Both! Multitasking at its finest. So, after 15 losses, what kept you going?

Odette: Stubbornness.

MMA Reporter: Stubbornness! The true mark of a champion. Speaking of which, you finally turned the tables on Jennifer, who's beaten you twice before. Did you prepare differently for this fight?

Odette: Yoga.

MMA Reporter: Yoga! That explains the flexibility. Did you strike any downward dogs in the octagon?

Odette: Almost.

MMA Reporter: Almost! Maybe next time. Now that you've broken your losing streak, what's your plan for your next fight?

Odette: Win.

MMA Reporter: Winning is definitely a solid plan. Do you have any advice for fighters struggling like you were?

Odette: Duck.

MMA Reporter: Duck! Sage advice. Now, how are you planning to celebrate this victory?

Odette: Nap.

MMA Reporter: Nap! Well-deserved. What was the first thing you thought after the ref called the fight in your favor?

Odette: Pizza.

MMA Reporter: Pizza! The true champion's feast. Any favorite toppings?

Odette: Everything.

MMA Reporter: Everything! Go big or go home. Lastly, do you have any words for Jennifer, your fellow stablemate?

Odette: Sorry.

MMA Reporter: Sorry! A true sportswoman. And what about your fans who've stuck with you through thick and thin?

Odette: Thanks.

MMA Reporter: Thanks, indeed. One last question—sum up your journey from 15 losses to this victory in one word.

Odette: Epic.

MMA Reporter: Epic, indeed! There you have it, folks. The epic, yoga-master, pizza-loving Odette. Congratulations again, and enjoy that nap!

Odette: Definitely.
