

Dear _____

I have been a customer of your bank for _____ years. I bank at your _____ branch and have been satisfied with your service.

But I am very concerned about the growing climate crisis and the threat it poses to life on our planet. I want to be sure that I do business only with a bank that no longer invests my money, or the bank's own funds, in fossil fuel companies. I want a bank that makes no loans for construction of fossil fuel infrastructure.

You are probably aware that climate activists around the world are protesting at banks like JPMorgan Chase & CitiBank because those banks are helping the fossil fuel industry to set our future on fire.

Even JPMorgan Chase's own economists warned in January 2019 that the climate crisis will impact the world economy and human health, causing water stress, migration and extinction of many species; in fact it says "we cannot rule out catastrophic outcomes where human life as we know it is threatened."

Yet many banks have persisted in providing a money pipeline for the development of new fossil fuel infrastructure, demonstrating an indifference to human life or, more accurately, to all life on the planet. I urge you to lead your bank to stop financing fossil fuel expansion and begin funding the green economy, the true economy of the future.

I am a member of Elders Climate Action: we work every day, for our children, our grandchildren and all future generations, to end the climate emergency that threatens life on our planet.

Please act to stop the money pipeline today! No more loans to or investments in fossil fuels.

Sincerely,
