

Dan Levy's Parting Words to Each Class

My last word is that you will all go out after graduation and have great things happen to you in the world. I will be the first one to tell you that correlation is not causation, so I won't take any credit for the things that happen. But when they do, please share them with me. I'll be cheering for you. I'll be rooting for you, and I feel very fortunate to be in a position to tell you that, and I will be very happy for you when those things happen.

At the same time, if you ever have setbacks, or need a sounding board, or a crying shoulder, you have lifetime rights to my office hours. I want to say, from the bottom of my heart, thank you so much for making this semester an incredible experience for me.

Thank you!

David Franklin, 2020. Invisible Learning: The magic behind a Legendary Harvard statistics course. Kindle Direct Publishing.