

Describe a person you would like to study or work with: IELTS test Cue Card

Before beginning your IELTS preparation in detail, it is important to understand how to approach the IELTS test. You can establish a systematic approach to the question by reviewing the IELTS exam sample questions and answers. This will make it easier for you to formulate your own solutions on well-known or new IELTS speaking topics. Since the speaking portion of the IELTS test is the most challenging for pupils, it is crucial to emphasize it.

When answering the speaking test sections of the IELTS exam, your strategy should be to comprehend, visualize, and communicate.

It goes without saying that you should pay attention to the question that is presented to you during the cue card round of the IELTS speaking test. Asking the examiner to repeat the question will help you grasp it better and help you formulate an answer in your head, in case you do not understand it. You are free to write down your thoughts using paper and pencil if you would like. It will be provided to you during the IELTS speaking test.

You need to visualize the scenario as the following stage. Whatever the subject, mentally visualize the situation or incident. Strive for unconventional ideas. Recall that thousands of answers to topics comparable to yours have already been heard by the examiner and that IELTS speaking questions are frequently similar. Strive to differentiate your response. For instance, if the question is about describing a city, instead of picking Delhi, you can opt for Varanasi. In the speaking portion of the IELTS exam, this will help your topic stand out.

The implementation phase, which is the last one, is where your vocabulary and communication abilities come into play. Your performance in this section will improve the more IELTS sample test questions you answer during your IELTS exam preparation. An individual's score on the IELTS speaking test is determined by a number of variables, including fluency, articulation strength, grammatical command, and general command of the English language. Therefore, it's imperative that you respond to questions throughout the IELTS speaking examination in a way that is as precise and error-free as possible.

IELTS sample test topic: Describe a person you would like to study or work with

We will delve deeply into the topic of "Describe a person you would like to study or work with," which is one of the IELTS practice test questions. We'll start by learning how to respond to the query. There are two example responses that you can review to get a sense. Then, based on your personal experience, you can attempt to structure the response in a comparable or matching manner.

We will talk about a few follow-up questions on "Describe a person you would like to study or work with" after reviewing the sample responses. This can help you get a sense of the kind of follow-up questions related to the speaking subjects covered in the IELTS exam.

Achieving a good score on the IELTS speaking test requires a thorough understanding of every section, which will elevate your IELTS preparation to a new level.

IELTS practice test sample answer 1: Describe a person you would like to study or work with

Introduction:

A person I would like to work with is my former operations manager at my office.

How do you know the person?

When I first joined the organization, after completing the training as I was assigned to a team, he was the operations manager of our team. I worked under him for two years before he resigned and moved to another country for his further career.

Why do you want to study/work with this person?

In my 4 years of career, he is hands-down the best operation manager that I have come across. All the qualities that a leader should have, he had it in him. Right from being empathetic, to approachable, and impartial, he made sure everyone in the team was comfortable and not over-stressed. Even if there was a client-requirement, he would still put the employees first and if a deliverable was not achievable, he would handle it by himself and ask for more time. During my tenure of working with him, not for once did I feel that he was a boss and I could easily communicate with him without any fear.

What do you want to work or study together?

Given an opportunity, I would again want to work with him. He was not only good in terms of leadership but had extremely sound product knowledge as well. It is a treat to work with him and learn from him as his wealth of knowledge and experience is incomparable and most importantly, he is always ready to share it with his colleagues.

Conclusion:

Personally, we are still in touch and I can consider him as a mentor. Whenever I am stuck with something in life, I seek his advice. However, that is not enough for me and I am looking forward to working with him soon.

IELTS practice test sample answer 2: Describe a person you would like to study or work with

Introduction:

Shraddha is one of my closest friends and I would really like to study with her.

How do you know the person?

I have known her since childhood as we went to the same painting class as kids. Over time we became good friends and now, even after so many years when we no longer attend classes, we continue to remain in touch with one another and nurture our friendship.

Why do you want to study/work with this person?

Shraddha is one of the most patient people I know of and has a lot of concentration. I remember that when she used to paint, she literally forgot the world. Even if someone screamed her name, she would be so engrossed in her painting that she would not even glance a look at them. I think this is a kind of concentration that we need to excel at doing anything and especially it can help a lot during studies. I am sure that if I study with her, I will learn the art of concentration.

What do you want to work or study together?

Chemistry is a subject in which I am weak, and I find it difficult to memorize the equations of organic and inorganic chemistry. From our discussions, I have comprehended that Shraddha is good with Chemistry and thus, I would want to study chemistry with her. She can give me the tips and tricks that she used for studying and memorizing the equations. Apart from that, seeing her study with so much concentration will definitely help me since attention is contagious.

Conclusion:

All in all, Shraddha is one person I have immense respect and admiration for as a friend and it will be my honor to get to study with her. I think I will plan our duo-study session soon.

IELTS test next step: Follow up questions

This includes a part of follow-up questions after the IELTS speaking themes segment. By asking you a few follow-up questions in response to your monologue from the IELTS speaking portion, the examiner will assess your conversational skills in this area. In order to grasp the variations of the often asked IELTS speaking questions and their follow-up questions in the IELTS speaking follow-up questions section, you must review different IELTS speaking topics numerous times.

IELTS speaking - Follow up question

Follow-up Question 1: What are the benefits of group studies in your opinion?

Answer: I think resource pooling and healthy competition are two of the biggest advantages of any group study session. Sharing our resources, and ideas, and helping others understand the concepts where we excel and vice versa is helpful and we can learn every topic better, even the ones where we are lagging behind. Also, healthy competition helps us learn better. For example, if I am studying in a group and a friend of mine finishes a chapter or assignment, I will have the urge to complete it too at that moment and push myself, whereas if I am studying alone, I might just postpone it for the next day.

Follow-up Question 2: What quality do you seek in someone with whom you work?

Answer: Collaborative ability is something I appreciate in my co-workers. I believe to get any job done and work in a team, we need to help each other, be respectful of one another, and engage in teamwork with proper communication at all levels of the hierarchy. This is only possible if all the teammates have the cognition of collaborative work.

Follow-up Question 3: Does your efficiency at work depend on the people you work with?

Answer: To an extent yes. The people around us influence our mood. If I am around efficient people, not only will the environment be healthy and competitive but I will also feel the desire to go to work every day. Whereas in a toxic environment, our mood and desire to work lessens which I feel directly impacts our efficiency.

Follow-up Question 4: Will you ever share your study material and resources with your friend?

Answer: Definitely. And I have been doing this since my school years. Sharing study material, notes, or assignments will not decrease my scores and that is what matters. As long as I am scoring up to the mark, there is absolutely no point in keeping my materials to myself when I could be helping someone and also getting help in return.

Conclusion

D-VIVID offers you impeccable instructors and instructional resources to help you prepare for the IELTS speaking exam. We're dedicated to doing everything within our power to support you in achieving your goals and achieving an exceptional IELTS exam score. We provide individualized programs that include several IELTS sample test questions, solutions to a variety of IELTS speaking topics, and individual IELTS practice test options to assist you in getting ready for the IELTS exam. We understand that each person learns things in a unique way, and are here to cater to your needs as per your learning method. As a result, we concentrate on providing each student with individualized mentoring and strategies that are specific to their needs. Consequently, our very knowledgeable counselors help you study for the IELTS test and help you get a good score. For a wonderful IELTS preparation experience, act quickly and get in contact with us. We guarantee that your wish will be fulfilled.

IELTS test FAQs

FAQ 1: What is needed to take the IELTS speaking portion of the exam?

Answer: You must bring the identity documents you used for the IELTS exam and submitted with your IELTS test application. Before allowing you into the interview room, the relevant authorities will verify the identity on your ID. It is not allowed for you to carry personal items inside the speaking exam room, such as watches or electronics.

FAQ 2: Can I select the time slot when I want to take the IELTS speaking test?

Answer: If you would prefer to take the IELTS speaking exam offline, you can select the timing of your speaking test from the login page once you have registered. The responsible council will assign them at random if all the spots are taken. If not, first come, first served is the rule. You have to reserve your speaking test time slot within eight days of completing your writing, reading, and listening assessments. The LRW and Speaking sections of the online IELTS test are scheduled for the same day. Three days prior to the exam date, candidates will get information regarding the day and hour of the speaking test.

FAQ 3: What kinds of questions might I be asked in the introduction phase of the speaking test?

Answer: Both the examiner and the candidate warm up during the interview portion of the IELTS speaking exam. You should anticipate being questioned about your education, research interests, and professional background. Since this is a conversation-starter round, plan ahead and have a polished self-introduction ready to go to help you feel less anxious about the cue card and follow-up portion of the IELTS speaking exam.