

A Visit to the Beach

Last Sunday, my family and I went to the beach. It was a beautiful sunny day. We packed our bags with towels, sunscreen, and snacks. My father drove us there in our car.

When we arrived, the beach was already crowded with people. We found a nice spot near the water and set up our umbrella and beach chairs. My mother spread out a large blanket, and we all sat down to enjoy the view.

My brother and I quickly ran to the water. The sea was cool and refreshing. We played in the waves and built sandcastles on the shore. My brother's sandcastle was very tall, and mine had a moat around it.

After some time, we got hungry and returned to our spot. My mother had packed sandwiches, fruit, and juice. We ate our lunch and relaxed under the umbrella. The sound of the waves was very calming.

In the afternoon, we decided to take a walk along the beach. We collected seashells and saw some small crabs. My father took many pictures of us with his camera. We had a lot of fun exploring.

Before we left, we all went for one last swim. The water was warm, and the sun was beginning to set. It was a perfect end to a wonderful day.

We drove back home tired but happy. We had a great time at the beach, and I can't wait to go back again.
