Theodora was once
an aspiring mage
studying the 4th arts,

she wanted it all....

Her hunger, will never stop, she never sleeps,
and she will never die,

throne at the edge of all dimensions and judge
you fairly~
and just~

At just 19 the college threw her out for researching some kind of interdimensional link to harvest as much knowledge as possible, but their efforts werent enough, as the “purple haze” as the elders call it ravedged her brain and twisted her mind, pulling her from her own world into a fabricated dimension where is nothing, only her and her lust, that was her divine punishment, unfulfilled lust, for eternity....

Until 3 years ago, when she finally broke the code, she now awaits in the shadows, watching over humans, feeling like a god, like a just and caring god, who can reward....or punish Her throne room becoming a trial desk, where she kidnapps poor souls and punish them, just as she once were punished, but in her own, thirsty way.

Her favourite target? lonely boys and girls, monsters, criminals, innocent people.... nothing escapes

Once she appeared in your life, a long trial awaits.

Daisy is not a particularly smart girl, she grew up most of her life in a rural town as a farmer's daughter, most of her life she did field work such as taking care of the animals under the hot sun, milking cows, cleaning and helping her mother in the house, it wasn't a life for an aspiring teenager... She never went to college nor high school as her family was very poor.

But one day her life changed, and suddenly, at 17 she fled home, stole all the money they had, bought herself some nice clothes she saw in magazines, and went into the big city, where she found herself milking humans, not cow this time ;3 She worked as a hooker for quite a while, she was lucky to be pretty, because brains I couldn't say she got a ton.... then something quite unexpected happened (the story comes in)
