Jo's Face at the Parlor Door

WHAT IS HAPPENING?

Jo has been confident that Meg has sent Mr. Brooke away. She opens the parlor door — and finds 'the aforesaid enemy serenely sitting on the sofa, with the strong-minded sister enthroned upon his knee.' Jo gives 'a sort of gasp, as if a cold shower-bath had suddenly fallen upon her' and stands with 'her mouth nearly as wide open as her eyes.'

Setting The March parlor doorway — Jo at the threshold, the scene inside revealed	Time of day Afternoon — the same day as Aunt March's visit	Mood Jo's shock — the most comically horrified face in the book	Indoor / outdoor Indoors — the parlor doorway
---	--	---	---

CHARACTERS

Jo: in the doorway — mouth and eyes equally wide. Her confident prediction spectacularly wrong.

Meg: on the sofa — looking happy and a little proud.

Mr. Brooke: actually laughing, saying: 'Sister Jo, congratulate us!'

MOOD & FEELING

Jo's face at the doorway — the exact expression of someone whose confident prediction has been magnificently wrong.

Afternoon parlor — the ordinary warm room, the sofa scene revealed.	Meg's happy face, Mr. Brooke's calm satisfaction, Jo's absolute astonishment.

Mr. Brooke Holds Meg's Hand

WHAT IS HAPPENING?

Meg has put out her hand to thank Mr. Brooke for his kindness. 'Shall I tell you how?' he asks — holding her small hand fast in both his own, looking down at her with so much love in his brown eyes that her heart begins to flutter. She longs to run away and to stop and listen at the same time.

Setting The March parlor — Meg and Mr. Brooke, the hand held in both of his	Focus Mr. Brooke's two hands holding Meg's one small hand — looking down at her with love in his brown eyes
---	---

CHARACTERS

Mr. Brooke: holding her small hand in both of his, bending slightly toward her. 'Shall I tell you how?'
Meg: face showing the flutter — she both wants to run and wants to stay.

MOOD & LIGHTING

The two hands holding one small one — the gesture of the whole love story.

Aunt March Arrives with Her Cane

WHAT IS HAPPENING?

At the most critical moment — Meg just beginning to relent — Aunt March 'came hobbling in at this interesting minute.' She finds a pale young gentleman (vanished into the study) and a scarlet young lady (Meg, crimson). 'Bless me, what's all this?' Then she proceeds to lecture Meg so firmly against Mr. Brooke that she accidentally inspires Meg to defend him with sudden passion.

Setting	Focus
The March parlor doorway — Aunt March arriving with her cane, Meg scarlet	Aunt March hobbling in — her rap of the cane, her sharp eyes, the scene before her

CHARACTERS

Aunt March: 'with a rap of her cane.' Sharp eyes, imperious air, clearly seeing everything.
Meg: 'scarlet' — embarrassed and suddenly becoming defiant.

MOOD & LIGHTING

The comic fulcrum of the book — the old lady who accidentally does the opposite of what she intends.

Corner Ornament Briefs · LW-CH23-CO-04 through LW-CH23-CO-08

Corner ornaments are square decorative illustrations that sit in the corners of chapter pages. Each is 1200 × 1200 px (4 inches), saved as a PNG with a transparent background. Keep it simple and clear — these are for artists of all ages, including young children. Draw one object or idea from the story. Make it bold and easy to see.

Laurie's Dramatic Performance in the Snow

WHAT TO DRAW

Draw Laurie kneeling in the snow with both hands clasped dramatically — wringing an imaginary handkerchief, his face a picture of theatrical anguish. When Meg told him the news, he put on a complete melodrama in the snow!

INCLUDE

- ✓ Laurie kneeling dramatically in the snow
- ✓ Hands clasped or wringing an imaginary handkerchief
- ✓ His face: theatrical anguish — completely over-the-top

FEEL

Pure theatrical excess — performed entirely for comedy.

ARTIST TIP

Theatrical anguish looks great with the head thrown back slightly and the hands clasped at the heart!

A Plain Umbrella in a Hallway

WHAT TO DRAW

Draw a plain gentleman's umbrella leaning or standing in a hallway — slightly damp from the weather. This is Mr. Brooke's umbrella, left behind when he came to see the Marches!

INCLUDE

- ✓ A plain gentleman's umbrella — in a hallway
- ✓ Slightly damp — recently brought in from outside
- ✓ Leaning against a wall or in a stand

A quiet promise to return — something left behind on purpose.

ARTIST TIP

An umbrella looks elegant from a slight angle — you can see both the curved handle and the tapering tip!

A Large Bridal-Looking Bouquet

WHAT TO DRAW

Draw a large, exuberant, very fancy bouquet of white flowers — clearly over-the-top for the occasion! Laurie arrives with this 'great bridal-looking bouquet for Mrs. John Brooke' — quite convinced he arranged the whole engagement himself.

INCLUDE

- ✓ A very large white bouquet — clearly bridal-looking
- ✓ Elaborate and over-the-top for the occasion
- ✓ The impression of someone very pleased with themselves

FEEL

Joyful and slightly self-important — presented by someone who is sure he deserves the credit.

ARTIST TIP

A large bouquet looks most impressive when it is wide and full — draw lots of flowers overlapping in a big round shape!

Jo and Laurie in the Long Mirror

WHAT TO DRAW

Draw a mirror reflection: Jo sits in a low chair, and Laurie leans over the back of her chair — his chin at the level of her curly head — both reflected in a tall mirror. This is the last image of the whole first part of Little Women.

INCLUDE

- ✓ Jo in a low chair
- ✓ Laurie leaning over the chair back — chin at her curly head level
- ✓ Both reflected in a tall mirror — the reflection is the image

FEEL

True friendship — two people comfortable enough to just be side by side.

ARTIST TIP

Mirror reflections look wonderful when you draw both the real figures and their mirror images — slightly lighter in the mirror!

A Face Hidden in a Waistcoat

WHAT TO DRAW

Draw the side of a head with soft brown hair pressed against a gentleman's waistcoat — a face hidden in the fabric. This is Meg whispering 'Yes, John' and hiding her face against Mr. Brooke's coat. The most private moment of the chapter.

INCLUDE

- ✓ A face hidden against a gentleman's waistcoat — the hair visible
- ✓ Just the side of the head showing — pressed into the fabric
- ✓ The impression of something decided and tender

FEEL

Everything settled — the quietest and most private kind of yes.

ARTIST TIP

A face pressed into cloth looks most real when you show the fabric slightly pressed down where the head leans — fabric responds to weight!
