

Great Quotes on Monitoring Progress/Sustaining Momentum

"Data can help expose how certain educational practices reflect our institutional belief systems. Because historical legacies and practices create institutional norms, many educators do not regularly engage in self-reflection about personal beliefs or their assumptions about student potential and ability..."

- Johnson and LaSalle, 2010, pg 11

"Skillful use of data can stimulate personal and systemic examination in ways that completely alter the type and quality of opportunities provided to students. Devoting time to highlight and do something about institutional biases must take place on an unremitting basis with all of those involved..."
