

Welcome to this episode of MATEHUNTERS
the one hole aella couldn't fill was her heart

Hi I'm looking for a boy i'd like to touch. Most boys I meet are boys I do not want to touch.
Hopefully if you know a boy i would like to touch with this will help you identify him.

Things I want that most boys don't have, roughly in order of how many boys they filter out

- *open to kids maybe??? and probably doesn't already have kids/strong life commitments
- *financially stable, bonus points for extremely financially stable
- *independent, not looking to spend all their time joined at hip
- libertarian*
- *social power roughly in a similar tier to mine, tho doesn't need to be same sphere
- *is open to risk, "brave", caution is calculated, doesn't let fear of bad outcomes affect taking life by the balls
- *sexually sadistic/aggro/brutal, tho nearby things might also work?
- *real good at [jazzhands] emotional maturity: stuff like detecting and naming emotions, having boundaries and a body, communication, "talking from the stomach", circling skills, mind meldy moves, speaking-from-poetry-instead-of-accuracy
- *similar IQ range
- *totally accepting of self and others, deeply okay/at peace
- *good at rationality n stuff, cold culture
- *good at grokking the spiritual realm, dude; knows there is no spoon, is a convincing character built around the hidden fount of bubbling delight and purest grief, or something

how i'm poly

Polyamory is very much mandatory for me, unless you're a billionaire. For me, "poly" just means "I don't place rules on the intimacy my partner has with others." In practice, I tend to behave mostly monogamously; I don't spend a lot of time looking for other partners when I'm in a serious relationship, though occasionally i have flings. Historically my relationships have looked like me banging ~1 additional person per year while my partner bangs or dates many more. (This isn't a guarantee i'd never end up with another long-term partner tho).

Im happy to commit time/effort to joint stuff like potential kids or house or 'relationship development time', even if it interrupts potential future relationships with other partners.

for me the difference is kinda how id be mad if you didn't want me to hang out with my friends cause of nebulous 'commitment', but i wouldnt be mad if you didn't want me to hang out with my friends cause i promised to go hand-snagging trout with you instead.

About Me?

The list of aella-facts is maybe less necessary cause i exhibitionist my personality loudly online into every crevice, but if you want an external list of nice things, my ex Nate Soares has a document entitled My Ex Is A Shit Eating Whore

And for things about me that are maybe more nonobvious potential dealbreakers for people with specific preferences

- *80% cold culture

- *not good at entering full rationalist mode when emotionally activated

- *messy

- *more avoidant-attachment style

- *i do not like directly initiating sex almost ever (tho doesnt mean you cant have as much sex as you want)

- *i have hyperhidrosis and if im not actively treating it (which is annoying) i sweat profusely from hands and feet. I also have IBS and poop erratically.

- *not even the most basic cooking skills

- *i like being on the computer a whole lot and dont like doing much outside stuff

- *not routine oriented (tho i would like to be)

- *do not like threesomes