

Mission of Structural Engineering Program

The Structural Engineering Program aims to prepare distinguished engineers in the cognitive and applied aspects, capable of carrying out scientific and technical research, enhancing self-learning capabilities and adapting to future challenges by applying academic and professional standards to serve the needs of society and contribute to achieving sustainable development, and competing at the local and regional levels.