

Subject: Let's go to Nationals!

Hey [Officer's Name(s)],

I wanted to put this on your radar — the USA Dance National Collegiate DanceSport Championships are coming up, and I think we should go. It's one of the biggest collegiate ballroom events in the country, bringing together dancers from all over. We'd get to connect with other teams, make new friends, and maybe even find future collaborations.

The competition itself is huge, with some of the largest heats in the U.S., giving us a chance to showcase our skills and represent our team on a national stage. There's also the possibility of earning national titles and rankings, which could boost our visibility and help us make the case for more funding from the school. On top of that, the event offers workshops and masterclasses with top professionals, so we could learn from the best and bring that knowledge back to our practices.

We'd get to watch world-class dancers compete for spots on Team USA, which is a rare and exciting experience. The event's website (www.usadancencdc.org) has tips for keeping costs low and even offers financial assistance for teams in need (www.usadancencdc.org/assistance). Could we talk about this at the next practice? I really think it's an amazing opportunity for us.
