

FLASH
FICTION
ONLINE

Thank you for supporting Flash Fiction Online and being one of our favorite authors!

As part of our 100th issue celebration and subscription drive, we'll be highlighting flash stories from our archives and offering our new 2022 Super Subscribers a deeper insight into them using these interviews.

Please choose 3-5 questions, answer them below, and return the saved Word document to flashfictiononlineditor@gmail.com. Thanks!

How can readers of Flash Fiction Online support you in your writing endeavors?

What does a typical day of writing look like for you?

Which part of a story generally forms first for you?

Do you have any favorite themes or motifs you find yourself returning to in your writing?

Flash Fiction Online is proud to pay our authors professional rates; do you remember (or can you guess) how you used the income you earned from your story?

What writing skill do you wish you were better at?

What's the most difficult thing about writing in the genre of this story?

Were there any reviews, fan art, or fan mail that you received for this story that really made your day?

In your opinion, what would be the worst type of apocalypse, and why?

What attributes do you have in common with your story's protagonist?

How many times was this story rejected before it found its home with us, and what revisions did it go through in that time?

What beverage (alcoholic or not) would pair well with your story?