Title: Aeon Request Popup Box - SCLFind Issue #4

Date: 12/07/2021

Status: Under Stakeholder Review

Priority: High

Issue: @shawn Feel free to create your own mockup of the popup. The mockup displayed here is just a reference from Princeton we made to match the info displayed in our existing system. The Aeon request popup needs to appear once a user clicks the cart icon at the top of the banner. The popup should deduplicate top containers with the same barcode when submitting that info to Aeon, unless the collection identifiers are different. See Image 4.2. The following info should be passed to Aeon when the user submits the request:
- Collection title
- Identifier (Collection ID)
- Series title (If no series, list the title of the item for which the request box appears)
- (Top Container) #
- Barcode
- Repository

Reason: We would like the requests to be able to request across different collections, but when submitting the entire request to Aeon, deduplicate the top containers unless they have different collection ids. We want to update the language included in the popup to make sure users understand how our requesting system actually works (we will not get the boxes they request until they show up in the building). We want to mimic how Princeton's popup looks, as well as their request button (https://findingaids.princeton.edu/catalog/C0090_c001).
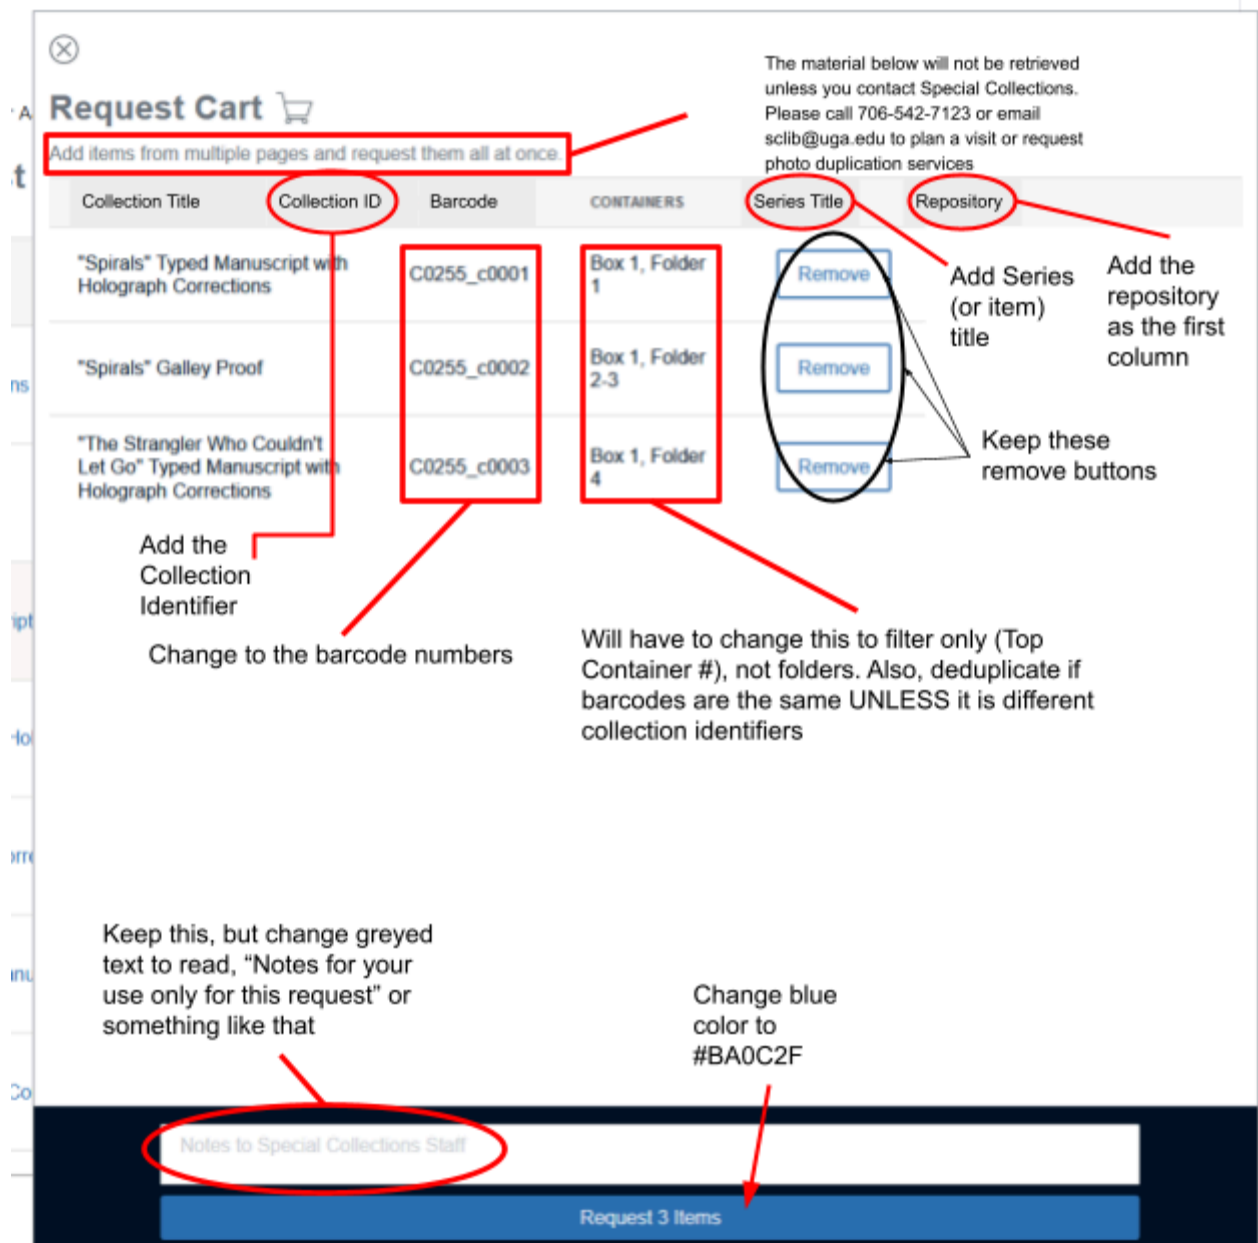

Details:

Image 4.2: Princeton's implementation of the request cart popup looks very similar to how we might want our popup to look. Example at bottom of page: https://findingaids.princeton.edu/catalog/MC076_c00002

When submitting the info to Aeon, it should send the following information:
- Collection title
- Identifier (Collection ID)
- Box # (Top Container)
- Series
- Barcode
- Repository

Image 4.1: Princeton's Request Cart is something we want to mimic in design and functionality, except requesting by box, not folder.
